The Warmest Welcome Secretary Davis' Example Extra: Terrible Trust A Bad Picture

— By Arthur Brisbane —

E. M. STATLER, who built many hotels providing comfort for hundreds of thousands, died suddenly yesterday. He will meet William Shenstone, who wrote:

Who'er has travell'd life's dull round,
Where'er his stages may have been,
May sigh to think he still has found
The warmest welcome at an inn.

Ten young soldiers went up together in a three-engine, metal Ford airplane. The ten all jumped together, with parachutes, and all landed safely, breaking the simultaneous parachute jumping record.

Army aviators have enthusiasm, because Mr. Davis, Secretary of War, sets the example in flying, and his assistant, Trubee Davison, although smashed up in an airplane accident at the beginning of the war, is another constant flier.

Men are ready to follow where their superiors lead.

London worries about great newspaper trusts. Rothermere Beaverbrook and one or two others threaten to swallow all the newspapers of Great Britain.

There is one consolation in dealing with newspapers, the people have the initiative, referendum and recall. They can buy or refuse any paper—and they can ruin any paper by refusing to buy it.

They would be better off if they had the same power over elected officials.

Rubber workers in Brazil hurry down the Amazon to the place where Henry Ford has bought rubber concessions from the state of Para. They hear that Henry Ford pays big wages—he does—and they all want to work for him.

Led by real estate will-o-the-wisps, a lot of Americans rushed to buy land, more or less in the neighborhood of Muscle Shoals, under the impression that Ford would come down and make the land worth ten times its real value. Ford did his best to stop that expensive foolishness, but it was impossible.

Lord Birkenhead, one of England's really intelligent statesmen, protested against the British film, "Dawn," showing the life and death of Edith Cavell, executed by Germans as a spy.

Lord Birkenhead says the question is: "Do we desire, or do we not desire, that a new era of peace should dawn in Europe?"

France and other nations in the course of bitter war executed women as spies. It was necessary, as part of the allies' war policy, to kill, through disease brought on by semi-starvation, thousands of German children. All that is part of a horrible past and its memory should not be

BREMEN FLIERS TO HOP FROM QUEBEC; WILL SHIP OWN PLANE TO HALIFAX

(By the Associated Press)

Messages from the frozen North today reported that the transatlantic fliers who landed on Greenly Island will fly on to New York at once, but not in their own ship.

The reports varied in detail but agreed on the essentials that the Junkers monoplane Bremen would be left behind for shipping by boat to Halifax and that the three members of the German-Irish crew would fly to New York together in the Junkers F-13, a sister ship of the Bremen.

First reports of developments today came from Montreal and told of the decision of the German pilots to abandon attempts to repair the Bremen on Greenly Island.

Wireless operators in touch with the Island were given as the source of the information.

It was added that the Germans, headed by Baron Hunefeld and Capt. Koehl, would fly to the main land in a seaplane piloted by Maj. Fitzmaurice, and their Irish companion, and continue

'DANCING BARBER' TO DIE IN ELECTRIC CHAIR

George Elmer Harrison Taylor, "the dancing barber," must die in the electric chair for the murder of Stella Fonkalz at Salisbury Beach, June 8, 1927, as a result of a ruling by the full bench of the Supreme Court, today.

The court overruled all Taylor's exceptions, declaring that drunkenness is no excuse for crime, and ordered judgment on the verdict of first degree murder returned by an Essex County jury.

GERMANS AWAITING PARTS FOR DAMAGED AIRPLANE

members of the crew were already in the air on their way to Murray Bay in the plane used by Fitzmaurice yesterday.

It was for that this message might possibly have been carried in relay as there had been no previous report of Fitzmaurice returning to the island.

After the Bremen landed on the island a Canadian Trans-Continental Airways plane was sent to its assistance from Murray Bay by C. A. (Dukes) chiller and Dr. Louis Guenidec.

Yesterday Schiller and Fitzmaurice started back to Murray Bay but came down in a storm at Natashquan. It had been supposed that they would continue today and no report of their having turned back to the island was received prior to the message from all three transatlantic fliers, Schiller and Guinther, were aboard and headed for Murray Bay.

The F114E flew to Montreal yesterday and could easily make connections with the Canadian Airways plane at Quebec or some other convenient point to take on the transocean fliers and transport them to New York.

Quebec, Que., April 17 (INS)—Major James F. Fitzmaurice, one of the Bremen's transatlantic fliers, and Charles (Duke") Schiller hopped off at Natashquan, Que., for Quebec today, but were compelled by stormy weather to return.

According to word from Natashquan the aviators probably cannot take off again before Wednesday owing to snow and wind. They were forced to land at Natashquan yesterday while trying to fly from Greenly Island to Quebec.

Montreal, April 17 (Canadian Press)—Wireless operators in touch with Greenly Island reported today that it had been decided that the transatlantic monoplane Bremen could not be repaired on the island.

The operator said that the Bremen, which was damaged in landing on Greenly Island after carrying its crew of two Germans and one Irishman across the ocean, would be taken to Halifax on the Canadian government ice breaker Montcalm.

Plane Flew "Blind" for 400 Miles as the Lights Failed

Point Amour, Que., April 17 (By Marconi Wireless to the Canadian Press)—Failure of the lighting system of the Bremen which made it impossible for fliers to read their instruments for hours was blamed today by Baron von Huenefeld for the wanderings which brought the transatlantic plane down on Greenly Island, hundreds of miles from its course.

The baron estimated that 400 miles were flown in darkness, during which the plane swung from its southwest course into a northerly direction.

The plane had progressed well, he said, all day Thursday after its takeoff from Ireland but that night a blizzard developed. Storm conditions

Ocean Flight Crew Thanks Coolidge for 'Greetings'

Washington, April 17 (AP)—A message of appreciation for the telegram of congratulation sent them by President Coolidge was received at the White House today from the crew of the Bremen.

"Deeply moved by your very kind message of congratulation," the message said. "The German-Irish crew of German airplane Bremen hope to reach the great republic of U. S. A. very soon, when they will personally express their great appreciation of and thanks for your sympathetic interest in their work."

BARON PLANNED TO SHOOT PALS IF THEY LOST

St. John, N. B., April 27 (AP)—The Times-Globe and Telegraph-Journal today prints a first-hand account by Miss Greta Ferris of the Grenfell Mission of the arrival of the Bremen at Greenly Island and the reception of the three transatlantic aviators.

Her message, sent by wireless and telephone, was told with laconic brevity.

"Bremen 36 hours Dublin to Greenly Island," it said. "Fog most of way. Arrived noon, Friday, April 13. Mission lighthouse for steamer frozen in ice. Lost bearings and compass inaccurate. Plane broke through fog. Injured axle, dented propeller. Still in same position. Plane hoisted on gasoline tank and boards.

"Baron cold and exhausted," the simple narrative continued. Feared they would never reach land. Ready to shoot companions if worst came to worst.

"Baron came at once to lighthouse, where given dry footwear. Refused to eat until his companions left plane first. First meal was biscuits and fresh milk. Baron feels the cold and anxious to reach New York."

"Fitzmaurice says Labrador is not Ireland—is warmer there. Koehl does not complain, all very modest. Most thankful to have accomplished such a feat."

DOG TEAM TO RESCUE

"First words of all on arriving, in different languages, were, 'Thank God!' Spent first night at the Mohlhouse with keeper and family. Still there. Koehl celebrated his 40th birthday on April 15.

"Grenfell workers drove 15 miles with nine Eskimo dogs to extend mission hospitality to heroes. Work too pressing and distance too great by dog team for fliers to accept.

"The plane RCAIP from Murray bay, Canada, arrived Sunday at 4 p. m. to give relief. RCAIP returning to Murray bay to get new undercarriage and other equipment for damaged plane. Photographed plane and Fitzmaurice with Irish-Eskimo dogs.

"S. S. Montcalm within 100 miles of disabled plane coming to assistance. Much ice in strait. Four men crossed ice from Flowers Cove Sunday to get informed and to see plane. Specially privileged here and allowed to examine plane without interference. No guards.

BARON KISSES HANDS.

"Autographs obtained from the heroes. First Canadian autograph. Baron kissed our hands when bidding adieu. Koehl carries aeroplane mascots sent him from Berlin with black pig given him before leaving Dublin attached. (Signed) Greta Ferris."

Miss Ferris, whose home is in St. John, is a nurse on the Labrador medical mission of Sir Wilfred Grenfell. A party from the mission station at Blane Sablon journeyed 15 miles by dog sled to offer the aviators their services. Her story came by wireless to Red Head and thence by telephone.

Concord, N. H., Flier Lands at Murray Bay, Quebec

Concord, N. H., April 17 (AP)—Robert S. Fogg, aviator who flew from the Concord airport to Quebec yesterday, arrived at Murray bay, Quebec, last night, a message received from him today said. Fogg hoped to get through to Greenly Island before the German fliers left there.

WIDOW BARES HAYS HUNT FOR 'SLUSH' DATA

Washington, April 17 (AP)—Testimony that Will H. Hays, former Republican national chairman, visited her home early this year in search of records of a Liberty bond transaction with her husband, now dead, was given the Senate Teapot Dome committee today by Mrs. John T. Pratt, New York.

Previous testimony has been that Harry F. Sinclair turned over a large batch of Liberty bonds to Hays and that Hays gave $50,000 of them to Pratt to dispose of in wiping out a campaign deficit. Through Pratt's records the names of Secretary Mellon, William M. Butler, present Republican chairman, and the late John W. Weeks, former Secretary of War, were brought into the inquiry.

NAME MELLON, DAWES.

Meanwhile, today in court, where Sinclair is on trial for conspiracy with Albert B. Fall to defraud the government in the leasing of Teapot Dome, the defense introduced testimony that the Gulf Oil Company and the Pure Oil Company were objectionable as possible lessees because they were dominated by the Mellon and Dawes families, both of which were represented in the administration.

E. Foster Bain, former government geologist, gave the testimony during a long examination into which the question of the drainage of the Dome came up constantly, notwithstanding the ruling of the court that it was not relevant.

Mrs. Pratt told the Senate committee Hayes visited her home on Lincoln's birthday, February 12, "and asked me if I could find the record of the Liberty bonds he gave to Mr. Pratt."

Mrs. Pratt had no personal knowledge of the transaction between her husband and Hays, and Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian, now under penitentiary sentence, likewise told the committee he knew nothing of the Continental Trading Company, from which the bonds came.

HE REFUSED TO LIE

Clarence C. Chase, former collector of customs at El Paso, Tex., and son-in-law of Fall, testified Fall asked him to go to Cleveland in November, 1923, and see Price McKinney as to why he had not replied to a letter from the former Interior Secretary.

"Yes, Mr. McKinney was to come to Washington and tell the oil committee he had made arrangements to supply the money for the purchase of the Harriss ranch property," he said.

"But the Harriss ranch already had been purchased and $10,000 in cash paid on it."

"Yes, but Mr. McKinney was to tell the committee that he furnished the money instead of Mr. Doheny," E. L. Doheny, who transmitted $100,000 to Fall, was the lessee of the Elk Hills (Cal.) oil reserve.

Sen. Walsh then read McKinney's testimony, in 1924 that he had been asked to say that he had made a loan and that he had refused to do so because he had made no loan to Fall.

"But you knew that $10,000 had been paid on the Harriss ranch in your office in El Paso?" Chase was asked. "Yes, sir."

"Did you know where the money came from?" "Yes, I knew it came from Mr. Doheny."

"What did Mr. Fall go to New York for?" Walsh asked. "To see Mr. Doheny."

"What did he want to see him for?"

"To see whether Mr. Doheny still had the note Mr. Fall had given him when he borrowed the $100,000," Chase replied. "The note was mutilated, the signature having been torn off."

Boston May Stage Big Airplane Show in 1930

Boston may be host to an airplane show in 1930, if plans set under way in Detroit materialize, it was learned today. Formal application has been made to the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America for the staging of the International Aviation Exposition of 1930. Owen Shannon, secretary of the chamber, said Boston would be given first consideration because of its 300th anniversary celebration that year.

Higgins was killed Saturday when his motorcycle collided with an automobile in Southboro. Services were held at the Church of St. John the Evangelist. Burial was in Oak Grove Cemetery, Medford.

ANSWER FILED IN GALLAGHER RUM SUIT

"Should a body help a body after too much rye (Scotch or gin)?"

Or in other words, whether to assist a tipsy friend home will be the real issue in the case of William F. Collins against Jimmy Gallagher, popular orchestra leader, and C. Roy Carlson, according to the defendants' attorney.

Gallagher and Carlson are accused of contributing to the intoxication of Mrs. Catherine Collins. Denial of this allegation and others was made today by Atty. Joseph J. Mulhern, representing them, in papers filed today in Superior Court.

The $25,000 suit brought by Collins is the first to be based on a statute of October, 1919, giving the right of action for injuries caused by intoxicated persons.

LAWYER SAVED AFTER PLUNGE IN RIVER

After his roadster skidded, crashed through the railing of Cragie bridge, turned over and landed bottom up in the Charles river under the viaduct, Roger F. Clemons of Wakefield, a Boston attorney, clung desperately to the overturned car for nearly an hour before being rescued.

Only a short time after he was saved by Sergt. Bernard Marshall and Patrolman William J. Irwin of the Metropolitan police, the body of another man was fished out of the river close to the dam by Irwin and Patrolman John McKinnon.

The body was that of Harry Eustace, 55, deckhand on the barge Henry Endicott, who fell from the barge and was drowned.

The lusty shouting of Clemons brought his rescuers to him. Because of the darkness the policemen could not find him until a searchlight was put into action.

Clemons declared that two trucks going in opposite directions on the bridge forced him to swerve to avoid them and this caused the skid.

MONJAR TESTIFIES HE FEARED BAY STATE WARRANTS FOR ARRESTS

TELLS HOW READING FORCED HIM TO TURN OVER PROPERTY

proposition they offered, instead of giving me the difference between the actual value, would have left me actually indebted to the extent of $100,000."

BALKED AT ASSIGNMENT

Monjar said he refused to make the assignment of the valuables held in escrow.

He said: "Reading rose to his feet after I refused to sign. 'Monjar,' he said, 'if you want to fight, we will fight. I'll make it so hot for you that you'll wish you'd gone out to the middle of the Atlantic ocean and jumped off.'"

The valuables turned over to Reading by Monjar at the October convention in New York of the Decimo Club included stocks and bonds in the Apasco corporation and Drew Printing Company, and $95,000 evidence of indebtedness.

The witness said he considered all those his property, and that Reading had told him: "If you had acted under good legal advice there was not a dollar which you couldn't have claimed as your own."

HEARD ABOUTS WARRANTS

At the convention, he said, he learned that warrants were out for him and his friends. He was expecting to be married the day following.

Q.—What actuated you in assenting to the agreement? A.—The fact that those warrants were out and the fact that I would be arrested and my four friends.

Q.—Was it because of fear of being arrested and taken back to Massachusetts? A.—Yes.

Q.—In your talk with Reading, did he say if the property was not turned over he would take the threatened steps? (Monjar testified yesterday that Reading told him he could convict him of a felony before any jury in Massachusetts.) A.—He said: "We would.'"

Reading's attitude during that conference was that of a prosecuting attorney toward a criminal, Monjar said. "He shook his finger at me, but that was not his sternest appearance. His eyes were the toughest part of him as far as that is concerned."

There were two witnesses present when Reading said he could obtain conviction by a Massachusetts jury of Monjar, the latter testified.

One of the two present when the attorney-general discussed with Monjar the latter's contract with the club was Joseph D. Webster, former vice-president and treasurer of the organization, who yesterday finished testifying before the committee, and the other was I. Y. Stewart, one-time Decimo Club official, who accompanied Monjar to Boston, Monjar said.

MONJAR IS QUIZZED

Monjar was questioned by Attorney Estey regarding the attitude of the Decimo members in ratifying his contract.

"Mr. Reading thought I would be very badly disappointed if I thought the members would ratify the contract. He said he did not think they would ratify such an amendment.

"He said he knew human nature and the average man was after the money he could get. And then he said, 'Every man has his price.'"

Asked if there was anyone present when he received the suggestion from Reading that he leave town, he answered J. W. Stewart was there.

Q.—At that time did the question of a deposit of $300,000 in the Old Colony Trust Company come before the board? A.—It did.

$600,000 IN THE BANK.

Q.—At that time how much of the clubs money was in a New York bank? A.—About $600,000.

Monjar said Webster recommended the Old Colony Trust Co. He did not know whether Reading suggested the money be deposited in Boston. He said at that time the New York banks were not paying any interest on the deposit and they gained an interest of 3 per cent by depositing in the Boston bank.

Reading was in New York at the time of the Decimo Club convention last October, Monjar said. The witness said at that time he heard a rumor of the impending arrest of himself and his friends.

"It was a very decided rumor. It was an actual statement," said the witness.

WHAT READING SAID.

Monjar told of a conversation which he had with the new board of governors and Reading in October. There were ten members on the board. Monjar said the directors told him they had delegated Reading as their attorney to question him.

Attorney Esty then read a statement purporting to be a summary of what took place at that meeting as told by Monjar. Reading told Monjar, according to the statement, that the directors were doubtful about the criminal as well as the civil phase of his contract and that Reading said he personally believed matters could be straightened out but the present board otherwise would have to institute legal proceedings.

Reading told Monjar he would not only face civil but criminal proceedings, according to the statement, and that the action would probably occur in New York. Reading told him all funds paid in initiation fees must be used in building up the membership, Monjar's statement maintained.

LOOKED HIM IN THE EYE

Q.—Do you recall that statement? A.—I remember saying that in general. Reading said any state could hold me liable. He said it in a forceful manner, looking me straight in the eye. I understood he meant Massachusetts where he had power.

Monjar said Reading told him $300,000 received from initiation fees must be accounted for.

Q.—Do you recall Reading saying the law might hold you absolutely responsible but the board was willing to sit down and allow you a reasonable compensation? A.—I do.

Q.—Do you recall him saying you were personally liable for $100,000 also as an advance on a loan? A.—I do.

Q.—Do you recall he said further that "the law would look beyond, that you were the board. I wondered who Monjar was, because every one I saw down here was ready to bow down to him.

'NOT ONLY LOAN, BUT A STEAL'

"Judging from my observations the law would look beyond the board and say you loaned yourself $100,000. Not only a loan, but a steal. You got your hand in the treasury and took $100,000, which must be accounted for. You are personally liable for $100,000, you have not protected yourself in any way"? A.—Yes.

Monjar further said Reading remarked: "If you had acted under good legal advice there was not a dollar which you couldn't have claimed as your own."

Asked if there was a conference about certain personal loans made to various members of Decimo, Monjar said there was "Approximately I loaned $96,000 to $97,000," he said.

Q.—Was there any talk of a check made out by Decimo to you? A.—Yes, there was check for $3262, which represented the closing up of my account.

TRIED TO CASH CHECK.

Monjar said he attempted to cash this check before the meeting, that he sent his stenographer to the bank to get it cashed and she returned and said the bank wouldn't cash any checks not signed by the new committee.

Q.—What did Reading say? A.—Reading said: "Monjar, this is a very bad thing for you to do. What about this check?" I said the check was drawn to me, it closed up my account on initiation fees. He quizzed me somewhat to see if I had got any of the boys to make this check out. Reading said I was not entitled to it, that it belonged to Decimo. He demanded I turn over all property except $2000 I had in my personal account.

Q.—What was this property? A.—$71,000 Apasco stock, $4000 Apasco stock held in trust $2000 Drew Tailoring, $125,000 bonds of the Apasco Corp., a check for $3262 and $95,000 evidence of indebtedness.

GAVE UP HIS STOCK

Q.—How many shares of that was Apasco stock? A.—$71,000 worth.

Q.—To whom was the property to be turned over to ? A.—To someone selected by the Decimo Club.

Q.—Did you on October 18 agree to turn over that property to someone on the suggestion and demand of Atty.-Gen. Reading? A.—Yes.

Q.—What was to be done upon turning over the property? A.—It was to be turned over to someone selected by the board.

Q.—Did you have any choice in this matter? A.—I had no choice whatsoever.

Q.—Was there anything said at that time about an audit? A.—Yes. It was stated by Mr. Reading that they intended to make an audit and pay me well for my services.

SCARED BY WARRANTS.

Q.—Who was to select the auditor? A.—They were.

Q.—What actuated you to assenting to the agreement? A.—The fact those warrants were out and the fact I would be arrested and my four friends whom I thought a great deal of.

Q.—Was it because of the fear of being arrested and taken from Massachusetts? A.—Yes. I certainly was afraid of being arrested and taken back to Massachusetts.

Q.—Were you at that time expecting to be married? A.—Yes. The day after the convention, October 20.

Q.—Did the young lady know of the situation? A.—She certainly did not.

Q.—As a result of your fear did you secure the various securities you testified to? A.—Yes, I brought them up to the same office.

GAVE STOCK TO READING.

Q.—What did you do with them? A.—I turned them over to Mr. Reading personally.

Q.—Was there any receipt given for them? A.—There was.

Atty. Esty referred to the agreement and showed the witness a photostatic copy and Monjar said Reading drew up the agreement. It was offered in evidence.

Q.—In your talk with Mr. Reading did he say if the property was not turned over he would take the threatened steps? A.—He said: "We would."

Q.—Will you state to the committee the attitude of Mr. Reading in that talk, his speech, manner and gestures, when he asked you for the return of the property? A.—He had the attitude of a prosecuting attorney toward a criminal. He spoke as if he were to decide whether or not I was to be punished.

He shook his finger at me, but that was not his sternest appearance. His eyes are the toughest part of him as far as that is concerned."

TALK ABOUT $100,000 LOAN

Testimony then centered about the value of bonds in the Apasco Company, and Monjar said the assets of the company far exceeded the value of the bonds.

Reading said if the figures were correct, we will owe you some money, and I hope we do," said Monjar.

Q.—Did you have some talk with Reading over the $100,000 you loaned to Decimo members on your personal account? A.—At that time the only evidence of the loans were the cancelled checks. They were all in with the others, covering a period of six or seven months. Reading asked me to secure them and turn them over to him.

Q.—Did you do that? A.—I turned them over to Mr. Deitz, the assistant treasurer.

BALKED AT SIGNING

Q.—Did you receive a receipt? A.—Yes.

Monjar was shown a paper and said: "This appears to be an exact copy."

Q. (Representative Davison)—Where is the original? A.—In my attorney's possession in New York city.

It was there in connection with a suit pending against the Decimo Club, he explained.

Monjar was asked about a talk with Reading on the subject of making an assignment on December 8.

I went into the office where the agreement was made out. I said I would not sign such an assignment as it was contrary to what I understood at a previous meeting. The agreement was that the stocks and bonds be turned over at actual value. The proposition they offered, instead of owing me the difference in the actual value, would have left me actually indebted to the extent of $100,000.

FORCED TO GIVE IT UP

Q.—Were you fearful of arrest and prosecution in Massachusetts? A.—Yes, not only that but up to the convention I feared that very thing.

Monjar was shown a copy of the assignment agreement which Reading wanted him to sign on Dec. 8.

Q.—Did you refuse to sign it. A.—I did.

Q.—Did you consult with some attorney after that? A.—I did.

Q.—Did you consider all the property under escrow agreement your own personal property? A.—Yes.

Q.—Would you have turned it over if you hadn't feared arrest? A.—I would not.

Q.—Ever receive back any property you turned over to Deitz? A.—No.

Q.—Have you been advised of an audit of the books which was made of the two corporations? A.—Yes.

DEMANDED PERSONAL FUNDS

Q.—Did the attorney-general at any time demand that you turn over your personal bankbook and check account? A.—Yes. He said: "How much have you got in the bank?" I said approximately $10,000. He asked: "Are you sure?" I said I certainly was. He said: "I know, Monjar, you had over $100,000 three months ago." I said possibly at that time. He said: "You haven't withdrawn any large sums in the last three months." He requested me to bring in my book to verify my statement. I brought them in and he ran over the stubs.

Q.—What occurred at the December 8 meeting? A.—Reading rose to his feet after I refused to sign. "Monjar," he said, "if you want to fight, we will fight. I'll make it so hot for you that you'll wish you'd gone out to the middle of the Atlantic ocean and jumped off."

NOTHING CRIMINAL.

Atty. Anderson, for the defense, began cross examination, questioning Monjar regarding his work previous to 1924. Monjar said he went to New York in August, 1926, from San Francisco, that he had lived in the latter city ten or eleven years. He worked in Chicago about a year and a half and for a time in Louisville, Ky.

In 1924 he and two or three men started Decimo, he said.

Q.—What were the ideals of the club? A.—Honor, loyalty, justice and common sense.

Q.—Are they still the ideals of the club? A.—Yes, sir. Up to within 24 hours before I left the club.

Q.—Is there anything criminal about the club? A.—No.

Q.—At any time? A.—No.

Q.—Is there anything questionable about it? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Has there been any investigation of the club in relation to fraud? A.—Yes. The complaint of the attorney-general of New York.

OPEN AND ABOVE BOARD.

Q.—In all cases that they complained about was it that you appeared to be a business organization and that in reality you were a social organization? A.—Yes, except in one instance. The complaint was that we were a business organization masquerading in the guise of a fraternal organization.

Q.—So far as the club is concerned its ideals and working were absolutely open and above board? A.—Absolutely.

Q.—There was nothing that could call for criticism? A.—There was not.

The witness then said he first met Reading May 20 in the former's office.

Monjar said he received $2500 a month salary from the Apasco company from July 1 to Oct. 1, 1927, and that previous to that he was drawing $2000 a month. He denied he drew it later than Oct. 1.

He was questioned about the Oct 18 meeting when he turned over to Reading the stocks and bonds because he feared going to jail.

Q.—Do you remember Mr. Wilson said Mr. Reading had been delegated to question you and you said you had nothing to keep back? A.—I do.

Monjar Tells How Hot Reading Was Going to Make It

"I'll make it so hot for you that you'll wish you'd gone out to the middle of the Atlantic ocean and jumped off," Atty.-Gen. Arthur K. Reading told Hugh B. Monjar when the latter refused to make an assignment of stocks and bonds valued at $500,000, Monjar testified today.

The proposition put up to him by Reading meant he would lose not only the stock, but be indebted to the extent of $100,000 besides, Monjar testified.

DOUBT D. A. R. HEADS SHOULD SHAPE POLICY

Washington, April 17 (AP)—The much talked about blacklisting and the stand of the Daughters of the American Revolution on the administration's naval building program gave delegates to the organization's 37th continental congress their most absorbing topics of conversation today, even though the controversy has failed to reach the convention floor thus far.

Many of the leaders of the organization are wary about being drawn into the discussion publicly, but underneath is a current of feeling that the blacklisting issue has grown to include the larger question of the national officers' authority to pronounce national policies without specific approval of the membership.

All knowledge of the blacklist was categorically denied today by the Massachusetts state regent, Mrs. James Charles Peabody, and the majority of opinion among the delegates seemed squarely behind the national officers. This support was voiced outside the congress by several state regents.

"I absolutely know of no blacklist," said Mrs. Peabody, adding that her delegation has not even considered the referendum question.

"The New York group has not considered the question," said Mrs. Samuel J. Kramer, New York state regent, "but my personal opinion is that in a delegated body the delegates represent the chapters and elect the officers. I believe the national officers have endeavored to carry out the resolution adopted by the delegates."

TAX FIGHT IS NEAR END

Washington, April 17 (INS)—The question of whether Congress shall allow a $200,000,000 or a $300,000,000 tax reduction this year neared a decision today in the Senate finance committee.

The Democrats, fighting for a $300,000,000 reduction, were in sharp dispute with the administration ranks over the reductions to be allowed on corporation, admission, estate, automobile and exchange taxes.

In each instances the Democrats asked a greater reduction, if not the repeal, of taxes which the administration ranks held were necessary to retain in order to keep within the $200,000,000 limit fixed by the Treasury.

Administration leaders have hinted that the President will veto any bill which exceeds the Treasury limit.

Mons Battle Fought Over in Canadian Suit for $50,000

Coburg, Ont., April 17 (AP)—The supreme court of Ontario today was the scene of a second fighting of the Battle of Mons, as Gen. Sir Arthur Currie, former commander of the Canadian corps, sought to refute charges that the entry of the Belgian town by Canadian troops on November 11, 1918, was made at a deliberate waste of human lives to glorify the Canadian headquarters staff.

The former Canadian commander is seeking $50,000 damages in an action against W. T. R. Preston, at one time Liberal organizer for Ontario, and F. W. Wilson, publisher of the Port Hope Guide, based on an article published in the Port Hope Guide on June 13, 1927.

DEADLOCKED ON WATERWAYS

Washington, April 17 (INS)—The Great Lakes-St. Lawrence deep waterway is again on the high shelf.

Canada has rejected the proposal of the United States for an immediate beginning of negotiations for a treaty suggested by Secretary of State Kellogg, it is shown by correspondence made public today.

It is understood nothing more can be done until after the next Canadian national elections in 1930 or 1931.

Canada says it will not permit more power to be developed from wholly Canadian rights than can be absorbed by the Canadian market and will not consider exporting surplus to the United States. Potential hydro-electric energy involved is estimated at 5,000,000 horsepower, half of which belongs outright to Canada.

The major differences center on the remaining 2,250,000 horsepower eventually to be developed in the international section along part of northern New York.

"The United States," Kellogg replied, "ought to have its share of the power of the international section without waiting until Canada may be able to sell her power from these works."

LOWDEN HAS 19 PLEDGED LEAD OVER HOOVER

By George R. Holmes
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Washington, April 17.—Eight weeks from today the Republican National Convention meets in Kansas City to select its presidential candidate.

The field heads into the highly important six weeks of April and May, filled with primaries and state conventions, with the situation only beginning to clarify.

Considerably less than half of the delegates have been chosen, either by primary, state convention, or action by state committees, and those that have been chosen are about equally divided between the favorites—Herbert Hoover and Frank O. Lowden.

Only six of the seventeen primary seats have gone to the polls, Illinois, Michigan, Nebraska, New Hampshire, North Dakota and Wisconsin. These states have between them 164 delegates. Lowden is estimated to have won 48 in Illinois, the other 13 being doubtful; 13 in North Dakota, and 7 in Wisconsin, a total of 68.

Hoover has picked up 33 in Michigan, 12 in New Hampshire and 4 in Wisconsin, a total of 49.

Sen. George W. Norris (R), Nebraska, has received the 13 from his native state, and 15 in Wisconsin, making 34.

The primaries to date admittedly have thrown little light on the situation as a whole. Action of various state conventions and state committees has thrown little more. Aside from the primary States, some 14 other states have taken definite action in selecting delegates and instructing or pledging them, or leaving them uninstructed, but favorable to the various candidates.

NEW BAN TO HIT 'DOPE DOCTOR'

Geneva, Switzerland, April 17 (AP)—American doctors who themselves are addicts of dangerous drugs will fall under the ban of the law if the American government has its way.

The official report of the United States for 1927, presented to the League of Nations' opium commission today, disclosed that some difficulty has been experienced in preventing personal consumption of narcotics ostensibly purchased for bona fide medical use by physicians addicted to the habit, but new legislation is being considered to better control this situation.

The opium report, presented by John K. Caldwell, indicated the general American narcotic situation is improving and that only a grifling small proportion of narcotics manufactured in the United States is clandestinely obtained for non-medical purposes. The chief difficulty comes from smuggling, especially on the east coast. Nevertheless the legitimate consumption of dangerous drugs is less than the equivalent of one-half a grain of morphine a person, a substantial reduction from 1926.

BEAT SOCIETY DOCTOR WITH WAR RELIC

New York, April 17 (AP)—Beaten with a three-inch shell, Dr. E. Garnsey Brokaw, society physician and World War veteran, was found in his office apartment in East 69th st. today in a semiconscious condition.

The shell was a war trophy. Its condition as declared to be critical.

Clad in pajamas, he was found in his bedroom by Medical Examiner A. Atkinson and former member of the Flint Aero squadron with which Dr. Brokaw served as lieutenant-colonel in the medical corps. Dr. Bache had shared the apartment with him for four years.

There were no signs of a struggle in the room and police expressed the belief the physician was attacked by someone he had admitted to the apartment and then had been struck down from behind. Dr. Brokaw at Roosevelt Hospital partly regained consciousness but was unable to speak coherently. His injuries were described as a possible fracture of the right temple, bone on the face torn and a cut and bruises of the neck.

The shell was found on the mantelpiece. It had been washed but was only partly dry. Police said there were blood stains and fingerprints on it. It was taken to headquarters for development of the prints. The shell is of brass, three inches in diameter, about 15 inches long and weighs seven pounds.

Dr. Brokaw is 50 years old and unmarried.

BEDFORD SISTER OF MRS. KNAPP DEFENDS HER

Breaking the silence long maintained by relatives of Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, accused former Secretary of State of New York, a sister, Miss Julia A. Smith of Bedford, today uttered a spirited defense of her sister.

She declared that the story not mother, Mrs. Ella Smith, will gladly testify before the special grand jury now in session at Albany, "if my dear sister wants us."

A court order has been issued at Albany calling on all relatives to testify, and court officers are reported on their way to Bedford to serve these. Dist. Attv. Bushnell of Middlesex County is reported asking the New York authorities for seeking Mrs. Helen D. Smith and Mrs. Mary L. Bodkin of Bedford, who were subpoenaed under summons to testify, records but failed to appear.

Miss Smith excluded her other sister, Mrs. Helen Bodkin, have not been legally summoned and is not in bedford out in seclusion.

The relatives were all on Mrs. Knapp's census parade and, according to New York officials, Mrs. Helen Smith and Mrs. Bodkin did no work. At a previous hearing witnesses testified that Mrs. Knapp herself endorsed checks made out to her relatives.

"My mother and I both helped my sister, Mrs. Knapp, on the evenings in 1925 and 1926," said Miss Julia Smith of her Bedford home, a colonial mansion on Hillside ave.

"We were both paid. I am thankful that I have all the correspondence pertaining to this work which I shall produce at the right time."

CAPE PLAY HOUSE AT DENNIS READY FOR BUSY SEASON THIS SUMMER, SAYS BETTY ALDEN

Provision Made for Development of Youthful Amateur Talent Native to the District

ALONG WITH WHAT NATURE HAS DONE FOR CAPE COD, IN sand dunes, salubrious air, miles of shining strand and the scrub pine so typically Cape Coddish, there is a man made manifestation also typical of the Cape and its individualism. Travelers along the motor road through Dennis remark it. The seasoned summer resident is proud of it. And everyone of consequence from Sagamore on the north to the further tip of Cape Cod's fishhook curve, is interested in it. It is the "Cape Playhouse." Its past and present are interesting; its future promising.

THE "CAPE PLAYHOUSE" REARS ITS ODD STRUCTURE TO THE justification of the wayfarer. So curious a combination of country courthouse and antique barn is its own advertisement—perhaps its unstudied lines and irregularities are the artlessly artful means whereby it is indelibly etched on the wayfarer's mind. To the seasoned summer resident, however, as well as to the Cape Codder who stays the year around, the playhouse needs no introduction. The summer colony and the winter colony are ardent in support. Flock to its productions by the score and subscribe throughout the season.

IN REALITY THE BUILDING IS A BIT OF OLD CAPE COD ITSELF. History and tradition say that way back in the 15th century it was the Nobscusset Meeting House, this after it had been used as a place of worship for Dennis folk. Its church's career completed, it was "abandoned to more earthly uses." First it became a school where the younger generation was instructed in the three "Rs." Then it became a tin shop. Later a slaughter house and finally a garage. When some brilliant minds conceived the playhouse idea, there, ready to hand, was an ancient building, so distinctly Cape Cod as to appear miraculously provided for the purpose.

ITS PURCHASE ACCOMPLISHED, next it was moved, carefully guarded every foot of the way, to its present surrounding acres; every handhewn beam and weathered board was retained in the reconstruction, so that the simple primitive delight of Cape Cod architecture was preserved in the restoration that followed. In this Cleon Throckmorton showed his gifted hand. So much for the structure itself. For the purpose of a theater it is everything such a building should be. And now for its uses, present and to come.

TALENTED, INGENIOUS AND FAR-VISIONED YOUNG MEN ARE the Playhouse's manager and director. Raymond Moore is the first. Harold Winston is the second. And for a venture launched only a year or so ago the Playhouse is a lusty young infant about to encounter its second summer. Prospects for a splendid season are rosy. And plans for a year-round activity even are not beyond the dreams of the ambitious ventured on the ocean of dramatic endeavor. What "Stillmeton" is to the North Shore, the "Playhouse" will, without question, be to the Cape.

THE PLAYERS, OF COURSE, ARE OF PARAMOUNT IMPORTANCE in the interest scale. The 1925 company will be entirely professional, and includes some of those who trod the boards there last season. Glenn Hunter, Peggy Wood, Glaude Rains and Beatrix Thompson already are contracted for. And as to the plays, the list is long and brilliant, affording the choice of unusual, popular or romantic costume plays, revivals, poetic plays, melodrama and high-light comedies. As to the audiences it hopes to interest—since the Playhouse management leaves no loophole for the "arty" element to creep in, its appeal should be wide and comprehensive.

THERE'S EVEN A "JITNEY" SIDE TO THE EFFORT. THE actors and the props, and all paraphernalia of the stage were bundled into vans and cars and a pilgrimage of the "Cape" and the "Mainland," Cohasset and set up their theater for the patronage of the smart colony there that is so vitally inhad been thoroughly covered, artistically, in true "Jitney" fashion terested in and so enthusiastically They even came so near Boston as sponsors the arts.

"SOMETIME" IN THE ROSY future the Playhouse hopes to set up its own community—to build a diminutive village for itself and workers. It hopes to establish a small gallery, too, in which to hang the work of Cape artists. And so advance another field of the creative arts by exhibitions of the work of talented persons. FEARED PASTOR, SAYS WITNESS IN WILL SUIT

Testimony that Miss Sarah E. C. Oliver, who left the bulk of her estate to Rev. Dr. E. Victor Bigelow, had described Dr. Bigelow as a man of "terrible temper" and that he had "tortured" her was given in the will suit resumed today in Suffolk Probate Court.

The will is being contested by a half-brother and the daughter of another half-brother of Miss Oliver on the grounds of undue influence while Dr. Bigelow was trustee of Miss Oliver's estate.

Mrs. Ethel H. Perkins, recipient of a small piece of property by terms of the will, said Miss Oliver told her she was afraid of Rev. Dr. Bigelow and didn't know what he might do.

"She told me once that Dr. Bigelow tortured her," Mrs. Perkins testified. "She repeated the word twice and said he had a terrible temper."

Preceding Mrs. Perkins on the stand, Henry P. Tilden, vice-president of the U. S. Trust Company, told of an interview with Miss Oliver in which she told him she made a will leaving her estate to Dr. Bigelow. She made no comment, he said.

One witness remains to be heard in the case and both attorneys announced they would submit written arguments to Judge Prest after all testimony was in.

ROYAL OAK ADMIRAL IS RELIEVED OF COMMAND

London, April 17 (AP)—Rear-Admiral Bernard St. G. Collard, central figure in the famous Royal Oak affair which involved the court-martialing of Capt. Kenneth G. B. Dewar and Comdr. H. M. Daniel, has been relieved of his command and placed upon the retired list.

Announcement of this was made when the House of Commons convened today after the Easter recess by W. C. Bridgeman, first lord of the admiralty, in a long-awaited address on the Royal Oak controversy.

CURLEY FAVORS $1,000,000 FOR OLD SOLDIERS' HOME

The sum of $1,000,000 was urged today by former Mayor James M. Curley as an appropriation for a state home for Civil war veterans and their wives when he appeared before the House ways and means committee at the State House to advocate passage of the bill. His action, he said, followed a talk with Henry A. Monk, past commander of the State Department of Civil War veterans, who told him of the conditions that separate the soldiers and their wives in old age.

SOMERVILLE GIRL TO BE STAR IN SHOW

Miss Theresa Moore of Somerville will be a star in the second annual "oldtimers" banquet and reunion of the Masonic Square Progressive Association, at K. of C. Hall, Somerville, May 3. Miss Moore, assisted by her partner, Professor Harry Wiseman, will give an exhibition of fancy and ballroom dancing. "Dick" Manley of South Medford will appear in a juggling and club-swinging act.

PEGGY JOYCE SELECTS NO. 5, AN AMERICAN

Paris, April 17 (INS)—Peggy Hopkins Joyce is in the midst of a new romance. She revealed today that she is engaged to marry "a well-known American."

"But I will not tell his name," said Peggy.

At the same time Miss Joyce denied a rumor she might become the bride of Count de Janze, former husband of Alice Silverthorne of Chicago.

Miss Joyce is no stranger to the marriage altar, having had four husbands. Her last was Count Morner.

Before sailing for the United States the Marquis de Falaise, husband of Gloria Swanson, introduced Peggy to his cousin, the Count de Janze.

Afterward the count and Miss Joyce were seen constantly together, starting a rumor that an engagement might follow. Despite the fact they frequently dined together and spent the evening dancing or attending the theater, Miss Joyce told International news Service no romance was involved.

"I like the count. He is a nice fellow and I must go around with someone. But I am not engaged to a nice American. Perhaps you know him, but I won't tell his name. That is a secret right now," she said.

The former wife of Count de Janze is due at Marseilles today from enya colony. It was reported she had gone there to meet Raymond de Trafford, a young Englishman, whom she shot last year just before shooting herself with suicidal intent. At the time it was understood Countess de Janze was infatuated with De Trafford and shot him in desperation because he was leaving her to return to his family in England.

Recently it was reported the British authorities in Kenya colony were anxious to have the countess depart on the ground she was "an undesirable visitor."

Hoover Gets Two in Colorado

Colorado Springs, Colo., April 17 (AP)—Two of Colorado's fifteen delegates to the Republican National Convention will carry an endorsement for Herbert Hoover and the other 13 will go uninstructed.

PAY RAISES IN NEWTON AFTER HOT SESSION

In a stormy 12-hour session that lasted well into today, the Newton Board of Aldermen heard a scathing denunciation of their police chief and building commissioner at the hands of one of the board, both of whom were recommended for increase in salary.

"The bootleggers of Waltham and other cities and towns about, come to Newton to play their hellish business," Alderman George M. Heathcote charged when the question of a $300 raise for Police Chief Bernard F. Burke was presented.

"Increases in salary should be for meritorious service," he continued, "and I see no evidence of it in this case. He cited the Gorgone still explosion that took a toll of six lives, and another still explosion in Chestnut Hill that started a dangerous fire.

"The chief did not recommend anyone else in the department for an increase, you members will notice. I therefore heartily oppose such a thing," said.

Alderman Sinclair Weeks, president of the board, defended Chief Burke, who received an increase from $3600 to $3900 a year.

Building Commissioner Cecil C. Chadwick was accused by Heathcote of inefficiency in the building of the new $1,000,000 high school, a $20,000 ventilating plant and scored him for the collapse of the high school bleachers last fall.

Alderman Harry W. Fitz took issue with Heathcote and decried the taking up of such matters in open session. Chadwick was granted his increase, raising him from $4500 to $4600.

A budget of $2,827,283 was passed by the body before the tired members adjourned near dawn.

HIS BAY STATE GUARD AT COOLIDGE LUNCHEON

Washington, April 17 (AP)—President Coolidge discussed old times over the luncheon table today with Edward S. Horrigan, a Massachusetts State policeman, who was the President's personal bodyguard while he was Governor of Massachusetts.

Mrs. Horrigan and their daughter also were luncheon guests.

"CORPSE!"

Only one word . . . spoken softly. Perhaps she hadn't meant him to hear.

It set him wondering, that word. Corpse—that's what he'd been for months. So dead he fell asleep in the taxi—going to the party!

He knew what the real trouble was. Yet he'd tried and discarded all ordinary laxatives, from health foods that took months to act, to cathartics that left him tired and shaken. . .

Feen-a-mint is different!

It is like a bit of delicious chewing gum. You don't swallow it—you chew it!

Its magic laxative principle is released slowly, the way science meant it to be released. It actually becomes part of the digestive fluids—does not disturb digestion. It works with the body—not against it!

It won't torture you with griping pains. It won't poison or weaken the system. It won't enslave you to laxative pills. Begin now to correct constipation this modern scientific way.

'REDS' IN MILL STRIKE AT NEW BEDFORD

The entry of this element into the situation was greeted by a denunciation on the part of William F. G. Batty and Abraham Binns American Federation of Textile Operatives leaders, who warned their members to ignore Murdoch's movement.

"We don't need their help," said Batty. "We've shut the mills without any assistance from them. Their coming before matters."

WARNING BY BATTY.

"We warn the New Bedford operatives and the public of this city and New England against them. We shall caution the public not to contribute to any fund they may start.

"Every time they bob up they have a new alias. They formerly passed as the 'Tuck,' which stood for Textile Union Education League. They have bloomed out under a half dozen other names and now they are masquerading as 'the textile mill committee of New England.'

"We understand that W. G. Murdock is leading the gang that has just blown into New Bedford. We wish to shout from the housetops that we are in no way affiliated with them. It was all done before they came.

"We consider them troublemakers and character assassins. They are not of our breed and it is too late for them to try to meddle."

Similar respects were paid to the radicals at a meeting of silk weavers held this morning at the headquarters of the New Bedford Weavers' Protective Association in Labor Temple.

The new group has leased a store on Purchase st. as headquarters and has called a mass meeting in the Elm rink for Wednesday afternoon.

The large groups of strikers that gathered at the gates of the mills on Monday were absent today, with the exception of the city mills in the South End of the city.

Word that an attempt had been made to induce a group of girl weavers to finish a fabric contract on time to suit a customer caused pickets to hurry to one mill. The girl operatives refused to go to work, however, and there was no demonstration.

ONE SUSPECT REBUKED.

The second day of the strike that has closed the mills of 27 corporations was as quiet as the first. There were no arrests and no disorders. One operative suspected of deserting the strike found his flivver with the word "Scab" painted on it.

The Taber Mills and the City Mills, included among those where the strike is on, are operating their mills at Taunton, where the employes of both have accepted a 10 per cent cut. The Butler Mill also has a Taunton unit, but it is not equipped to operate alone.

ALLEN'S NAME APPEARS IN RUM CASE

Board of Selectmen received a sum of money from John K. Whiting, milk dealer, for not prosecuting Whiting Jr., on drunken driving charges.

"He gave men $35," Leavitt testified, "and I said that wasn't so much.

"There is more in this case than money," he quoted Torrey as replying. "Lieut-Gov. Allen is a friend of mine and is going to make a superior court justice of me."

Dist.-Atty. Bushnell then asked "There is no intimation you had that Allen knew anything about this-cose?"

"No, only what Torrey told me," Leavitt replied, adding that Torrey told him Allen and he served in the Legislature together.

Leavitt said he went to Torrey shortly after his appointment and told him of complaints pouring in on liquor nuisances.

"Any time you are going to raid them let me know and I'll tip them to get the stuff out," he quoted the chairman as saying.

"I told Torrey I didn't want any phony raids," he said. "It just throws a smoke screen and what do I get out of it?"

"Pick up what you can. That's up to you," he said Torrey replied.

Eleven witnesses were sworn for the government.

The other two to plead guilty were Millard Smith and Frank Rotondo, citizens of the town.

The six remaining on trial are Atty. Frank A. Torrey, John H. Traynor, supervisor of the highway department; Eugene Lincoln, Amos Paquette, John H. Cutler and Charles Rotondo.

Police on "Burglar Hunt" When Rats Upset Phone

A light flashed out on the board of the Somerset telephone exchange today.

An alert operator notified Lieut. William G. Kenney of the Somerville police that there must be trouble in a store on Cross st. Investigation revealed that rats had upset the telephone set.

TAYLOR TO DIE IN CHAIR

The next move will be for the district attorney of Essex County to have Taylor brought into court and sentenced to death.

The girl, who lived in Lawrence, was employed in a photograph studio at Salisbury Beach. She was 20 years old. Her body was found on the beach on the morning of June 6, with a wrist watch and ring missing.

Suspicion fell on Taylor, an itinerant barber and carnival dancer, who had been working at the beach. He was trailed up through New Hampshire and eventually captured. The man was convicted largely on evidence furnished by a farmer who said Taylor was the man who sold the dead girl's watch to him.

One of the principal exceptions relied on by Taylor's counsel was that he should have been convicted of second degree murder because he had no recollection of what happened. The defendant had testified that on the day of the murder he drank two bottles of witch hazel and some moonshine, and could not remember anything about the crime. The Supreme Court said in its decision that under the law drunkenness is no excuse for crime.

Fitz Advises Curley to "Sing and Be Sweet"

On the heels of ex-Mayor Curley's remark that "Sweet Adeline," ex-Mayor Fitzgerald's war song, was a "drunkard's song," Fitzgerald today came back with a sharp retort.

Ex-Mayor Curley made his remark following Fitzgerald's appearance before the Codman Sq. Improvement Association. Fitzgerald concluded his speech by singing the famous ballad.

"It is a gratuitous insult to tens of thousands of people," Fitzgerald said, today in reply to ex-Mayor Curley. "I have never been in the condition that Mr. Curley indicates. Everybody knows my habits.

"I have sung the song thousands of times and have never seen any indication in the people of any such character that Mr. Curley suggests.

"I would suggest that he cultivate a song and sing it. It would make him better natured and perhaps cultivate in him a sweet dis-

DENTIST STABBED THREE TIMES; SUSPECT HELD

Worcester, April 17 (AP)—Dr. Walter R. Olson, a dentist, was stabbed three times today at his office by a man whom the dentist claimed he had ejected from the office. The police arrested Frank R. Kenney, 25, who, police said, had been drinking. The dentist was cut on the left chest, the knife penetrated to a rib and slashed on the left arm and left hand. He was taken to City Hospital.

MARY PHILBIN GETS ANOTHER BIG CHANCE

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS.

Los Angeles, April 17—D. W Griffith literally transforms Mary Philbin from a pretty-face girl into a splendid dramatic actress in "Drums of Love." Her change in personality and D. W's ability to really make her act have been the subject of much discussion. He has given other players a new personality, but never when they have been so well established as the little Philbin girl.

Universal will give everyone a chance to see the new Mary. It's a dramatic story with great possibilities, which Charles Kenyon is being careful to retain in the scenario he is writing.

We shall await with interest to see Miss Philbin, who is one of the loveliest of the young dramatic actresses in Hollywood.

The petite, bobbed-hair Kathleen Clifford, who defies the inroads of time by looking like a flapper, in all probability will play the mother in "Excess Baggage." You remember the mother who did a sister act with her daughter in vaudeville and had some of the best comedy in the play.

This is William Haines' best picture and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer have been trying to get a cast that will do right by the play.

Travel Notes—Our cosmopolites in Hollywood do comfortable things for themselves. Ralston, Florence Vidor and Pola Negri are all planning on a holiday in Honolulu, but not together. Irving Cummings gets himself a little trip East to make fishing scenes on Cape Cod. He is dumb like a fox—that boy. He makes one of the finest pictures of the year, then gets a vacation. Raymond Hatton and Wallace Beery expect to spend their vacations in Europe. Wallace has put out of his mind all thought of making of pictures in London. Maybe he has talked with Mickey Ellan and some of the rest who have not found the British studios anything to rave about.

The most entertained young woman in Hollywood the next few months will be Sylvia Thalberg. Everyone wants to give an engagement party for her, and the showers will come so thick and fast that Sylvia will hardly have time to get her bridal finery ready for June.

Sylvia doesn't know if she would marry some one in the movies. She is not interested in her art. Larry Weingarten, who is just starting out as a producer, has a future. Although young, he has been a part of the industry for a long time.

Sylvia, who has had to work hard for everything she has accomplished in the movies because her brother, Irving Thalberg, was particularly careful not to favor his sister, has just finished her biggest assignment, a scenario for her sister-in-law, Norma Shearer. It's called "An Adorable Liar," and it will be produced some time this year.

The trek to the beach has started. As the poets say, "Spring is sitting in the lap of Summer," or is it Winter? Anyway, our film stars are all tanned.

Evelyn Brent came in from Santa Monica looking like an Hawaiian belle. She has rented Ernest Torrence's house. Norma Talmadge is living in one of Pebe Daniels' houses and is also getting her share of ocean sunburn. Marion Davies moved into her beach house last Winter.

This last Winter was so warm ocean breezes had no terrors for those who are used to the climate at Santa Monica.

INNES AND PARKMAN IN HOT DELEGATE FIGHT

The fight between Charles H. Innes and Henry Parkman, Jr., to head the slate of delegates to be chosen to attend the Republican National Convention, has received fresh ammunition in a letter sent out by Warren F. Freeman of 430 Marlboro st., Boston.

This letter solicited membership in the Republican Club of Ward 5, which is to meet tomorrow night at 234 Stuart st. Innes and Walter H. Meins, candidates for delegates to the Republican convention, will deliver addresses. The opposition sent out a statement attacking Freeman, declaring it to be significant that the meeting is called in the last week before the primaries April 24, and asked the voters to vote for Parkman.

CHARGE MAN HURT BABY SO AS TO STEAL MA'S CASH

A charge that he stepped on a baby's fingers and then, while the mother was administering a remedy, stole the mother's money from her purse was vehemently denied today by Duncan Ross of Tremont st. in municipal court, but Ross firmly refused to take an oath.

"I didn't step on the kid's fingers and I didn't take the money, but I don't believe in oaths," he said, after Mrs. Mary Lane of West Canton st. told her story. Judge Sullivan said Ross was in no condition for arraignment and continued the case until tomorrow, whereupon the defendant turned to Mrs. Lane and shouted: "But, lady, didn't you give me beer?" "Never," was her reply. "You took the money and that is all there is to it."

DEATH DRIVER HELD FOR THE GRAND JURY

Charged with manslaughter, going away after a motor accident without making his identity known, and driving so as to endanger lives and property, Thomas Sacramona of Eastern ave., Hyde Park, was held for the grand jury today when arraigned in West Roxbury court.

Anthony Larosa of South Margin st., West End, was fatally injured by his car on Hyde Park ave., according to the police.

BEANS!

A wonderful new kind with the real "baked-out-of-doors" taste

a cup of molasses
a cup of brown sugar
a layer of sugar-cured pork
a layer of beans
a layer of sugar-cured pork
a layer of beans

Now you can enjoy beans like those baked in the ground in the Maine woods

Never did baked beans have such flavor as those old-time beans baked in the outdoor oven—the bean hole—of the Maine woods lumber camps.

The richest of ingredients went into the big-bellied iron bean pot—lots of sugar-cured pork, molasses and brown sugar. Then the pot was buried in the bean hole to cook all night in a bed of pine embers.

For the first time, now, that wonderful woods flavor is reproduced. In Bean Hole Beans!

They're like no other beans you've ever tasted! Enjoy this new deliciousness today. Your grocer has Bean Hole Beans—medium and large size.

ON FAME'S LADDER

Anthony De Luca, who shined shoes and saved so he could get money for music lessons, is returning this month from abroad to receive a rousing welcome. He has been graduated in Milan.

Boy, Whose First Instrument Was a Discarded Relic, Is Graduated in Milan

ANTHONY DeLUCA, a Boston boy who saved up the nickels he earned shining shoes until he had enough money to buy a violin, will return home on the Presidente Wilson in a few weeks after graduation with highest honors at the Milan Institute in Italy, where he went to complete his musical education.

His father, who lives at 15 Dawes st., Dorchester, is very proud of Anthony's achievement and plans a rousing welcome for him.

The boy manifested great interest in music from early childhood, preferring a toy violin to any other plaything. He put all his pennies in a small bank. While going to school he shined shoes in his spare time and in the evenings.

One day he surprised his father by bringing home an old and battered violin he had bought in a pawn shop with his savings. Arrangements were made for him to receive instruction in the violin and he continued to earn money as a bootblack to help pay for the music lessons.

He was graduated from the Edward Everett school in 1924. His parents planned to send him abroad for study under a famous violin teacher in Milan, but the death of his mother interrupted their plans. Later the father was able to arrange for him to go to Milan, where he has been studying music for four years. Out of a class of 80 students he was one of 15 selected for the school orchestra.

ROAD AND TECH TO CO-OPERATE

The Boston & Maine railroad will cooperate with M. I. T., begin using in June, to give students specializing in civil engineering opportunities for practical experience while still in school, Prof. W. H. T. Loude announced today during an address before the vocational training conference of the Women's Educational and Industrial Union.

Five large companies are already cooperating for the benefit of their various students specializing in electrical engineering, he declared, these concerns being the General Electric Company, Stone & Webster, Edison Electric Illuminating Company, Boston Elevated and American Telephone & Telegraph Company.

Such cooperation, Prof. Timbie explained, enables a student, upon graduation, to take up positions of executive responsibility instead of undergoing a period of routine tasks.

JACKSON COLLEGE BABY PARTY TONIGHT

The Jackson college annual baby party will be staged by the freshman class tonight in Jackson Gym.

The affair marks the close of upper class tyranny over the freshmen, and is conducted by the sophomore committee on traditions.

The "baby" class will attend attired in fantastic costume. Certain of the members of the class who have violated the sophomore rules during the year receive penalties in accordance with their misdemeanors. DOCTOR TRIED FOR MURDER BY THREE JUDGES

Hartford, Ct., April 17 (AP)—Harold N. Guilfoyle, former veterinarian in federal service, was placed at the bar in Superior Court today to be tried before three judges, by his own selection, on an indictment for murder of Mrs. Maximin J. Gaudet of New Haven on January 13.

The element of mystery in the case is as to the identity of the person who took a gun from Guilfoyle's coat, used it in mortally wounding Mrs. Gaudet and then in sending a bullet into Guilfoyle's temple, destroying the sight of one eye. The state's outline of its case indicated it would try to prove Guilfoyle took the gun out of his overcoat pocket.

Mrs. Gaudet and Guilfoyle were shot following dinner at the Guilfoyle apartment which was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Algernon Way, Mrs. Gaudet and little Mary Patience Gaudet. At the time of the shooting Way and the child were on the sidewalk, Guilfoyle and Mrs. Gaudet in the first floor hall, and Mrs. Guilfoyle and Mrs. Way in the apartment up one flight, but not in sight of each other.

When the police arrived they asked for the gun. Mrs. Guilfoyle said she had put it back where it had formerly been kept. Asked why she did it, she said, "that is where I made my big mistake."

Guilfoyle when asked who did the shooting, pointed at his wife and said "ask her."

Shortly after the doctor was brought into the courtroom his father and mother arrived. The three sat together in seats reserved for witnesses. Guilfoyle kept up a steady conversation with his parents and appeared to be calm. He occasionally smiled and waved a greeting to some acquaintance seated with the spectators.

Although he lost the sight of his right eye because of a bullet wound on the same night Mrs. Gaudet was slain, the optical defect was not noticeable as he sat gazing about the courtroom.

MARKET IS FINED $50 FOR SHORT WEIGHT IN STEAK

Found guilty of giving short-weight in a porterhouse steak bought by Deputy Sealer of Weights and Measures Thomas A. Kelley, Cobbs' Markets, Inc., was fined $50 today by Judge Sullivan in Municipal Court. The corporation, represented by an officer and an attorney, appealed.

A truck driver who acted as clerk on his own volition was blamed by the management, but Kelley testified he found one scale in the Columbus avenue market of the company one ounce "fast" and another two ounces.

Ten million one hundred and thirty-five thousand were killed in the war. Births, on account of fathers being away, etc., diminished by 20,850,000. "Spanish flu" and other causes increased civilian mortality by 6,016,000.

3 BOYS FIND A SKELETON IN NEWTON WOODS

The fully clothed skeleton of a man was found today in the Hammond woods, Newton, near the Brookline line, by a group of Brookline boys on a hike.

A rope and the broken limb of a tree apparently told a story of suicide by hanging. The skeleton was in the growing and had evidently been there many months.

Police Inspector John H. Shaughnessy of Newton and Medical Examiner George L. West went to investigate, summoned by William K. Taft, Boston Elevated starter at Chestnut Hill, to whom the boys reported their discovery.

The boys were Richard Maddox, 11, of Heath st.; Harry Bragnanti, 9, of Boylston st., and Arthur Murphy of Boylston st.

Two N. Y. Bridge Suicides

COOLIDGE SEES FLOOD BILL AS EXTORTION

Washington, April 17 (AP)—President Coolidge regards the pending flood control bill as the most extortionate measure that has passed any branch of Congress since he has been President.

The President believes that neither the Senate nor the Senate committee was acquainted with its ramifications and he is surprised that the measure passed the Senate with so little discussion.

The President attributes the raising of the administration bill from approximately $20,000,000 to $1,400,000,000 largely to agitation by lumber interests.

While not wishing the government to take over lands of lumber companies without just compensation, the President believes the opportunity should not be seized to involve the government in large damages by obtaining land to carry out the flood relief proposals.

Priest Will Give $100 for Chance at Robber

Kansas City, April 17 (AP)—If police will arrange a finale encounter between the Rev. John W. Keyes, 55-year-old pastor of St. James Catholic Church, and the largest of the two robbers who severely beat him Sunday night, they receive $100.

Fr. Keyes, who obtained money to complete his education about 30 years ago by appearing in the ring under the name of Jack Armstrong, made the offer today in describing his experience:

"When the two bandits accosted me and started to abuse me, I knocked the biggest fellow down."

Fr. Keyes told police. "Then his companion struck me with something, and I regained my senses in a strange neighborhood. They took my watch and cigars, but overlooked $100 in cash.

"I know it was foolish to fight those bandits," he continued. "I just couldn't keep from fighting back." Several years ago Fr. Keyes routed two robbers. When he knocked one down the other fled.

The Insulated Glenwood Brings GAS to its Peak of Perfection

All the economy, quickness and comfort of cooking with gas are brought to their best in the Insulated Glenwood.

First came Controlled Heat

The Glenwood AutomatiCook has been developed to such efficiency that the success of all your oven cooking is assured by simply setting the indicator.

The AutomatiCook measures oven heat just as you measure all the other ingredients in your cooking, except that it is more accurate than you can possibly be. And it never forgets.

Then came Oven Insulation

Glenwood Oven Insulation makes less gas do more work, so that you get the maximum of efficiency from every cubic foot of gas.

Thick walls of heavy insulation hold the heat inside the oven where it belongs so that your kitchen will be cooler and more comfortable in summer.

This oven is ventilated and made sweet and sanitary by the circulation of "live" air. Even broiling can be kept odorless and smokeless in the Insulated Glenwood.

And now the OurWay Top and the Built-In Incinerator

The entire cooking top of the OurWay model is as flat as a table. Four burners are enclosed below and there are two extra spaces on the shelf above, where things can be kept boiling on heat that was formerly wasted.

The new SV 18 model is made with a built-in incinerator so that all your rubbish, sweepings and even table waste can be disposed of in the most sanitary and convenient way.

You can see these two new Insulated and many other styles and sizes of Glenwood Ranges at your local gas company this week.

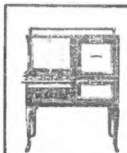
Special Builder's Range

Architects and builders will be interested in this new Glenwood Gas Range. It is small enough for an apartment kitchen but has ample capacity for the average family. "Good Glenwood Quality"—at a very moderate price. (Not insulated.)



Glenwood Gas Range, 36 inches wide. The oven is 16 inches high, with 2 cast iron oven racks. Plenty of room to bake on both of them at once.

tions forced the plane to lose altitude until it was flying "very low."

Although daybreak gave the aviators an opportunity to correct the direction in which they were flying, the weather became worse every hour and it was with the greatest difficulty that the plane could be kept up. It was flying dangerously low when it reached the Newfoundland coast and soon after saw the lighthouse on Greenly Island.

Relief Ship Renews Fight to Reach Greenly Island

Quebec, April 17 (By the Canadian Press)—Capt. Mercier of the Canadian government ice breaker Montcalm reported by wireless today that the wind was shifting from southerly to northeast, which he believed might open a way for him through the ice to Greenly Island.

Since shortly after the German-Irish fliers landed on the island Friday afternoon the Montcalm has been trying to reach them, but because of the close packed ice progress has been at the rate of only two knots under the best conditions.

This morning Capt. Mercier gave his position as 55 miles west-southwest of the island.

VILLAGERS HAIL 'FITZ' WITH WILD CHEER

By ROY V. HALPIN
(Special to the Boston Evening American)

Quebec, April 17—Two hundred hardy villagers of the little town of Natashquan on the bleak north shore of the St. Lawrence River 350 miles north of Quebec, gazed on in awe and admiration as a silver tipped Canadian transcontinental airway machine glided to earth.

The plane was piloted by Duke Schiller, one of the most daring fliers in Northern Canada.

It dipped down from an altitude of some 2000 feet and slowly spiraled to the air base a few hundred yards from the wharf where, in summer time, fishing vessels make their weekly call.

The visit of a flying machine is always an event for these people, but yesterday it was the day of days. It was the event of a lifetime, and it will be the talk of the village during the rest of the year.

This will be so because aboard the plane was the hero of the hour, the man on whom the eyes of the entire civilized world were focused, Col. James Fitzmaurice, transatlantic flier and commandant of the Irish Free State airforce.

GREETED WITH CHEERS.

The flying Irishman had just been "rescued" from Greenly Island, where he and his fellow adventurers, Baron von Huenefeld and Capt. Koehl of the German airforce, landed in a blinding snowstorm after being blown off their course in their attempted non-stop flight from Ireland to New York city.

Cheer after cheer went up as Pilot Duke Schiller made a perfect landing and the little plane skied along the some 75 feet to a stop.

The villagers surged around the plane as the transatlantic flier and the Canadian pilot climbed out, both smiling and happy, at the end of their 2000-mile hop from the island near which the stranded Bremen lay in the ice, like a great wounded bird.

Among those present to shake the hand of the Irishman were the mayor of the little town and the parish priest, Rev. Fr. Joseph Gallix. The latter is the very soul of the village and around whom all the activities of the little town circle.

The two fliers, following the reception, went immediately to the quarters of the Air Line, where they remained for some time after the curious spectators had returned to their work and their homes.

Following a lunch, the flying colonel was seen wending his way towards the little church with its spire standing out like a lone sentinel among the snow-topped houses surrounding it.

There was no one in the church except the parish priest. This white haired old man of the cloth, who, for many years, has been watching faithfully over his small flock in this isolated part of Northern Canada, went about his duties seemingly unaware of the young man who knelt in prayer at the altar rail.

But the priest did know. This was evidenced when someone entered the church and started up the aisle. Silently the priest made a sign to the intruder not to bother the man at the altar, and so Fitzmaurice was left alone in his prayers.

Fitzmaurice and Schiller spent the night at Natashquan. This morning the two airmen took off once more on the second lap of their journey back to civilization. The second hop was to bring them to Seven Islands, which is about 250 miles from Natashquan. There a second transcontinental Airways plane was awaiting them with two newspapermen and a newsreel cameraman.

ORDER FITZ TO AWAIT MATES IN CANADA

New York, April 17 (INS)—Major James Fitzmaurice, commander of the Irish air forces and co-hero of the Bremen's transatlantic flight, has been instructed by the Irish Free State to postpone his arrival in New York and Washington until he can make the flight south with his German colleagues.

The instructions were delivered to him at Natashquan, where he hopped from Greenly Island with Duke Schiller, by Timothy A. Smiddy, Free State minister to the United States, Minister Smiddy said here today.

His suggestion to Fitzmaurice, carrying the official flavor of a government order, followed similar requests from Mayor Walker and hundreds of Irishmen in New York.

"I first suggested to Major Fitzmaurice that he meet me in Montreal and come with me to Washington, to remain informally until the Bremen was ready for its flight to New York," Minister Smiddy said.

"But that plan was changed and my telegram to Major Fitzmaurice at Natashquan last night instructed him to wait and come with his colleagues. Of course, I don't know the circumstances of his leaving Greenly Island, but my idea in my telegram last night was to keep him waiting in Canada until his commanions are ready to complete the flight."

Fitz May Be Kin of an Ancient Irish Family

Dublin, April 17 (AP)—Irish antiquarians are undecided whether to claim Commandant James Fitzmaurice, co-pilot of the Bremen, as a descendant of an ancient Irish family or of later Norman-Irish stock.

The Irish names MacMorris and MacGilpatrick have in many cases been changed to Fitzmaurice and Fitzpatrick respectively. If this was the case with Commandant Fitzmaurice, then his ancient Irish name may have brought good luck to the Bremen since it has the significant meaning of "sea victory."

Before nopping off Fitzmaurice told an Associated Press reporter he thought his family was of Norman-Irish extraction.

Ex-Champ Bids for Fame as an Actor; Estelle Predicts Success

New York, April 17 (INS)—There's no danger of Jack Dempsey becoming Mr. Estelle Taylor. Not indeed! For, although Jack has definitely quit the fighting game, he has already started work to keep for himself a niche in the Thespian roster. He will become an actor.

Weather Is Too Cold for Games in East

Cold weather prevailed all over the eastern sector of the country today, causing the postponement of four big league ball games.

Though the sun was shining brightly here, the second game of the series between the Red Sox and world champion Yankees was postponed because of the frigid blasts which were sweeping across Fenway Park.

It was too cold for the Giant Phils clash at New York and the Braves-Dodgers encounter at Brooklyn, while rain stepped in to spoil the scheduled meeting of the Senators and Mackmen at Philadelphia.

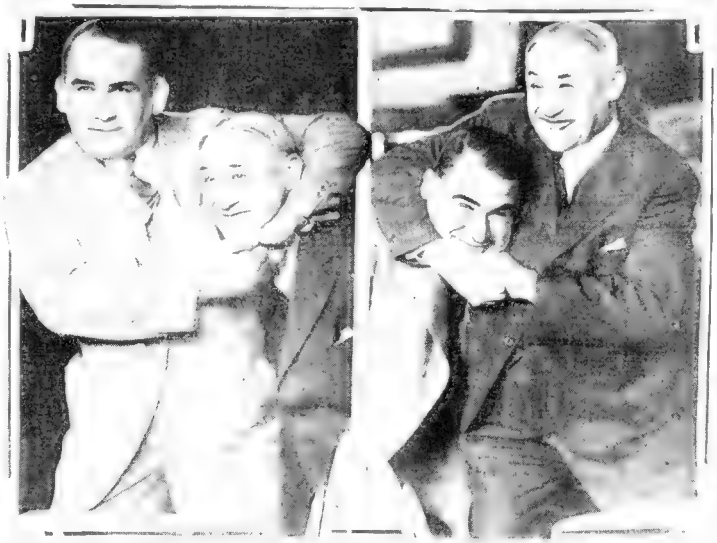
OUR SUPER PLAYS WITH WORLD'S MAT CHAMP



THE HEADLOCK HOLD THAT HAS MADE ED LEWIS SO FAMOUS AND WHICH enabled him to win the championship of the world from Joe Stecher is a wrestling trick that one can't fool with without damage, but in these pictures Mike Crowley, Boston's popular and powerful police superintendent, has permitted Lewis, in left picture, to get an almost strangle hold on him. Supt. Crowley, at right, goes right back at the champion with the same hold. Lewis meets Farmer McLeod in the feature bout of the big Arena wrestling program tomorrow night.

Keen Competition in W. G. A. Matches

Leads off first and holds its lead

With more horsepower per pound than any other motor car in its class, the Victory easily triumphs in performance.

For this exceptional ratio of power to weight gives the Victory an advantage which its rivals simply cannot hope to compete with.

You notice the difference instantly at the take-off—the Victory always leading. You notice it still more at top speed—the Victory always swinging to lead. And when the hills are reached, all attempts to follow the Victory abruptly end.

Rugged Dodge construction makes possible this calibre of power, and the car's unique and beautiful design is peculiarly adapted to fast, smooth travel.

The chassis frame, for instance, is the full width of the body—eliminating body overhang and sideway. And the gravity (or safety) center is lower because there are no body sills.

A car that deserves the brilliant welcome it has received—and one that you should drive and study at your first opportunity.

How the Custom of Lifting the Hat Originated

THE custom of gentlemen lifting their hats originated back in the days of knighthood. Knights never appeared in public except in full armor, but in the company of friends they removed the helmet, signifying, "I am safe among friends."

Martha Lee Tells of Cooking Dishes for Invalids

Martha Lee radio chat to be broadcast from station WLOE.

[illegible] is a personal matter, and [illegible] has as much to do with rapid recovery as have drugs.

Daintiness in serving greatly influences the appetite of the patient, and, therefore, for this reason it is better to serve small portions and present the meal by courses rather than place all on the tray at one time.

Have all hot beverages brought to the door of the sick room in a covered pitcher, then poured into the receptacles than those for medicine should be used, as the association of the two is oftentimes unpleasant. When the diet is limited, serve the foods that are permitted in as many forms as possible to avoid sameness.

For instance, beef tea may be given hot in the form of beef essence —as savory jelly, frozen, and as beef tea custard, practically the same food but more palatable because served in different forms.

Be very careful to keep such foods as milk, beef tea, etc., covered while in the refrigerator to avoid contact with other more odorous foods. If the refrigerator has more than one compartment, reserve one exclusively for the use of the sick room.

BEEF AND SAGO BROTH—One-half pound round steak, 1 pt. water, 2 red tsp. salt, 1 egg, oil, salt. Cut steak into small pieces and add cold water. Let stand for half an hour. Put in a double cooker and cook 2 hours or more. Add salt and pepper to taste and cook about half an hour longer. Strain through cheesecloth, return to the saucepan and cook half an hour longer. Add more salt if needed. Pour the broth over the well beaten egg white, beat thoroughly and serve at once.

CHICKEN STARCH—One cup fat free chicken stock (chicken or beef), 2 eggs, 1/4 level tsp. salt, pepper.

Beat the eggs till light but not foamy; add salt and pepper if not objected to. Have the beef tea or broth hot and pour it over the eggs. Strain into warmed cups or small moulds and cover each with greased paper.

Stand the moulds in a vessel of hot water and cook gently, either in the oven or over the fire, till the custard comes out clean (not milky looking), remove from the fire. Unmould and serve hot or cold. Do not let the water surrounding the moulds boil or the custard will be honeycombed and less digestible.

EGG CREAM—Two eggs, 2 level tbsp. sugar, grated rind and juice of half a lemon, 2 tbsp. water.

Separate the whites and yolks of the eggs and beat the yolks with the sugar till well blended; add the lemon juice, rind and water and cook in a double cooker, stirring constantly from the time the whites of eggs beaten till stiff are added, and cook till the mixture resembles thick cream. Cool and serve in small individual cups or glasses.

Junket is a great help towards appetizing nourishing invalid desserts.

JUNKET AND EGG—Beat white of an egg, add pinch salt, turn into bottom of a glass. Warm a cup of milk slightly, add a little cooked rice. Dissolve 1/4 Junket Tablet in 1 tsp. cold water, stir quickly into milk, pour over egg. Keep warm by placing glass in warm water (this will set in a few minutes while milk of egg can be poached, served with salt and pepper and plain toast. Serve with toast.

JUNKET CUSTARD—Beat 2 eggs with 2 tsps. sugar and gradually add to a cupful of hot milk. Add a pinch of salt. Cook in double cooker until well thickened, then remove at once from fire and cool. Stir 2 tsps. sugar with 1½ cups milk and 1 tsp. vanilla; warm slightly, add to the cooled custard and mix thoroughly.

Dissolve 1 Junket tablet in a spoonful cold water, add to custard mixture, stirring quickly; pour at once into cups, let set until firm in warm room, then place in ice box to chill. This junket custard is also delicious poured over stewed dried fruit, cooked with sugar.

GRAPE FRUIT JELLY (individual)—One-half tbsp. gelatine, ½ tbsp. cold water, 1 tbsp. boiling water, 1 tbsp. sugar, 1/3 cupful grape fruit juice.

Soak gelatine in cold water three minutes. Add boiling water and sugar, place over hot water and let stand until gelatine has dissolved, then add grapefruit juice, strain into a wet mold and chill.

GRAPE JUICE SPONGE (Individual)—One-half tsp. gelatine, ¼ cup grape juice, ½ egg white, 2 tbsp. cream.

Add gelatine to grape juice, place over hot water and let stand until gelatine has dissolved. Strain and when mixture begins to stiffen add white of egg, beaten until stiff, and heavy cream, beaten until stiff.

Turn into mold, first dipped in cold water, and chill. Remove from mold and garnish with whipped cream, sweetened and flavored with vanilla, and candied violets.

CHICKEN CUSTARD—Four eggs, separated, ¼ tsp salt, ¼ cup evaporated milk, 1¼ cups hot strong chicken broth.

Beat egg yolks until thick and [illegible] add salt, beat and [illegible] stirring carefully [illegible] Pour into [illegible] and serve cold [illegible]

CHICKEN CREAM—1½ cups [illegible] 1½ cups water, ½ [illegible] tsp. salt, 1½ tsp gelatine [illegible]

Soak the gelatine in the water and evaporated milk for five minutes. Add to gelatine mixture and cook until it becomes the consistency of custard. Fold in stiffly beaten whites of eggs and add flavoring.

Put into a mold which has been rinsed with cold water. Serve with [illegible]

When preparing invalid dishes be sure to use pure food and spotless utensils. Evaporated milk is specified in these recipes because it has been sterilized in the can and its purity is unquestioned. Sterilization also makes it more easily digested.

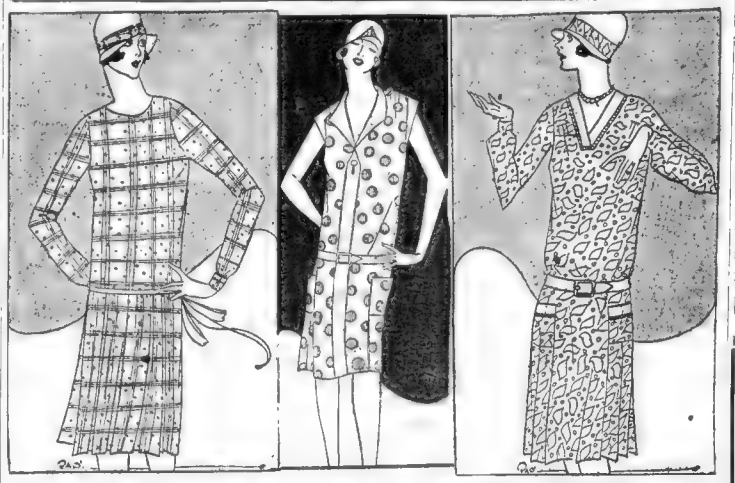
Suggestions for the Spring Costume



At left—There is a dainty charm to this printed voile frock for sports or afternoon wear. In center—A tennis frock in dotted linen, becoming to every type, cool, comfortable, charming. At right—Handkerchief linen in all the latest design marks this delightful summer frock.

Fads and Fashions

Girls Can't Be Too Gay in their choice of the printed silk with which to line their coats and make the accompanying frocks that complete the ensemble. Among the favorite patterns are some geometric designs, the new pea stripe, checked plaids, and the greatest variety of dotted effects.

Painting the Town Red seems to have been the ambition of the most Parisian designers, for deep shades of red are the predominating notes in the costume models just shown, and as smart this season as they have been for several preceding ones. All shades of red are definitely in the fore in spring fashions.

Dead white truly is dead from a bride's fan on a bridge table to her head. Many shades in bridal gowns are being strongly preferred. Satin, crepe satin, faille-back satin, faille and taffeta are the chosen fabrics. Even the bride's lingerie is not white, but light ivory tint.

"Soaks clothes so white
you'd think they had been scrubbed for hours"
says Mrs. D. Koehler, Warren St., Allston

"THE RINSO way of washing was easy"—so I was told by one of the many users of Rinso right in this locality who have written us.

"All I have to do is soak the clothes overnight in the tub, add Rinso suds, rinse thoroughly in the morning, and they're ready to hang out—white without any hard rubbing. Even boiling isn't really needed. Yet they always turn out so beautifully white that would think they had been scrubbed and boiled for hours.

"Rinso goes much farther than other soaps and is kinder to my hands, too. That's why I use it for all my housework such as dishes, floors, sinks and woodwork!"

This way easy on clothes

Rinso's secret is in its rich, lasting suds. Dirt, grease, grime and stains soak right out—without scrubbing. The most soiled edges become snowy with little or no rubbing. Clothes last longer when washed this gentle way.

Even in the hardest water, Rinso is all you need. It asks no help from bar soaps, chips or powders. Just try this famous granulated soap in your washer or tub for the next wash you do! So safe —contains nothing to harm your very finest cottons or linens.

Get the BIG package of Rinso from your grocer. Feel how creamy it is. You get your full money's worth when you buy this granulated soap—it's so compact. For best results follow the easy directions on the package.

Great in washing machines

For whiter washes and safety, thousands of women use Rinso in their washers. Try it! See for yourself why 32,000 demonstrators of washers use it. See why the makers of 32 leading washing machines highly endorse it.

"Jerry" by ELENORE MEHERIN AUTHOR of "CHICKIE"

A Story of Mad Moonlight Kisses and a Wonderful Young Girl

CHAPTER 67

"THAT," said Lloyd O'Connor, pausing before a beautiful old secretary in a shadowed alcove, "was Stephen Marsh's treasure chest. It belonged to his son. After the boy was killed they opened it and found a little lock of baby hair, some of your mother's baby shoes and three old daguerreotypes. Those were all they had to bring dear Stephen's memory."

"Did the resemblance of the little girl to their son ever strike them?" asked Jerry.

"Not that I ever heard. It was only after the medallion locket was found that one day they recalled the fact that Stephanie's mother had had a locket of which she was very proud. Then they remembered that the picture in it was a baby replica of their own little daughter."

"Then you've never told them?" asked Jerry.

"No. I've been waiting for you to do that. I wanted you to have the pleasure of telling them. Besides, I've been afraid that if I told them they would want to keep Stephanie with them. And I love her so much myself that I couldn't bear to lose her. Will you tell them, Jerry?"

"I'll do it tomorrow," said Jerry, "if you'll promise to keep Stephanie with you for a little while longer."

"I'll promise anything you ask," said Lloyd O'Connor, "if you'll only tell them."

"Then I'll tell them tomorrow," said Jerry, "and I'll ask them to let Stephanie stay with you for a little while longer."

"Thank you," said Lloyd O'Connor. "I'll love you for that, Jerry. And I'll love you more than ever for telling them. I'll write them myself, but I'll ask them to let you bring Stephanie to me. I'll want to see you both often."

"I'll be glad to bring her," said Jerry, "and I'll be glad to see you often, too. I'm very fond of you, Lloyd O'Connor."

"And I'm very fond of you, Jerry," said Lloyd O'Connor. "I'm very glad you've come into my life. I've been very lonely since my wife died. I've been very lonely since Stephanie's mother died. EAST BURLAP CROWD WAITS IN VAIN FOR "LINDY"

PICTURE shows the good-natured but ill-mannered crowd that waited in vain for "Lindy" to land at East Burlap. There was considerable jostling, pinching and hat knocking. Some of the older men were victims of unfavorable comment because they insisted on tip-toeing behind members of the unofficial Chamber of Commerce welcome committee, getting down on hands and knees, to permit their victims to be rudely shoved over backward. It is said that the Chamber of Commerce will pass resolutions against this practice and also strongly oppose "Please Kick Me" cards pinned on the coat tails of prominent citizens.

THE MEDITATIONS OF A WIFE

By HELEN ROWLAND

WHEN a woman of forty marries a man young enough to be her son, she elects herself his banker, cash box and guardian angel. But when a girl of twenty marries a man old enough to be her father, she elects herself his health chart and clinical thermometer.

* * *

He may be handsome, brilliant and fascinating; but he has reached that point in life when he is more interested in his "symptoms" than in any woman's charms. Nothing really thrills him but his diet and his circulation.

She need not flatter herself that "this red blood surges through his veins" at sight of her; for his blood pressure is either too high or too low to permit him to become "unduly excited." And he yearns for nothing so much as to tell her that his "blood count" shows his "corpuscular globes" to be only sixty per cent.

* * *

His "heart action" is uncertain and irregular, and every step he climbs in her behalf will be counted against her. The very blush upon his cheek may be merely a little "temperature."

* * *

When he gazes dreamily into her eyes, he may be merely trying to remember when he took his last pill and whether it is the tonic or the pepsin that comes next.

* * *

His idea of an absorbing conversation is one which revolves around his "cardio-respiratory" reactions or his red and white corpuscles.

His "knee-kicks" are not what they used to be, and even his arm grips may be hampered by neuritus or rheumatism. Just sitting on his lap may cause him real anguish by interfering seriously with his circulation.

* * *

Worst of all, you never know whether he may be hardening his heart and his arteries against you—and you may find a "joker" in his will.

* * *

In short, he has reached the Clinical Age—and he should marry only a woman of the Clinical Age, who would be willing to compare "symptoms" with him every morning at breakfast and count calories with him every evening at dinner. The Clinical Age is a delightful age, if you have somebody beside you who just loves dieting, revels in grand cures, and prefers bicarbonate of soda to champagne, and spinach to lobster.

* * *

But when the Clinical Age weds the Jazz Age, somebody gets out of step right in the middle of the wedding march—and after that, it's just a race for the divorce courts.

WORTHWHILE MIND MEANS A HAPPY LIFE

By J. J. MUNDY

WHY are you so dissatisfied?

You feel that you have good reason to be.

There are several things you want that you cannot get.

There is a social position to attain which is always beyond you.

So you let these trifles rob your life of its sweetness.

But why punish yourself over things that really amount to so little?

There is a bigger, broader sphere of life than the petty rounds you long to make your own.

The happiest people are those who have something within their minds upon which they can draw as occasion demands—who go about day after day doing thing that interest them.

If the mind is full enough of worthwhile things, you won't be dependent upon others for full enjoyment.

You may have a full cup of joy by just going your own righteous way.

It is worth something to keep yourself free of obligations that are irksome.

If you are making the most of your time, you will be happy.

KLAN SECRETS BARED

BRANDED AS TRAITORS, SAYS FORMER GRAND DRAGON

Preceding chapters of the story of the Ku Klux Klan's inside activities, as told in the affidavit of David C. Stephenson, former grand dragon of the order in Indiana, have told of bribery, corruption, character and physical assassination, carried out in the name of the organization. In today's installment he tells of the original purposes of the klan, its feelings as to religion, and political activity, as well as he way those political activities worked out in later days of the organization in Indiana.

(Copyright, 1928, by the Boston Evening American and International News Service. Reproduction in Whole or Part Absolutely Prohibited.)

Chicago, Ill., April 17—D. C. Stephenson today tells how the klan dealt with those who opposed their policies. His deposition continues:

Q—State whether or not it is the policy or practice to denounce as traitors all men who oppose their policies? A.—Yes, that is the policy. Some of the finest men who have ever identified themselves with the klan and have later disagreed, have endeavored to correct the misguided policies.

It has been the practice then, to either frame them with graft, or, and involve their character in some hideous charge or to circulate the report that they were traitors to the klan. Specifically they branded as atheists all who would not accept the narrow views or religion—in fact, they have repeatedly referred to me as an atheist—and some of their vassals have industriously circulated that report.

Q.—What are your views on religion that may have been at variance with theirs? A.—I believe in an eternal God; I believe in the God of Moses, Isaiah, Matthew, Mark, Luke and Paul, equally as the God of plain John Smith and plain Sam Brown. I believe in the same God who reigns over the destinies of the Protestants, who reigns over the destinies of the Catholics, the Jew, the Gentile, the Mohammedans, the Brahmans, the followers of Confucius, the mystic tribes of the Orient and the red men of the north; that God is universal love, that God is justice.

CONCEPTION OF DEITY

It is inconceivable to me that a just Supreme Ruler of the universe, who numbers the hairs on your head and counts the fall of the sparrow, could never be wrapped up, cooped up in a dogma or sect or creed.

Broadly, that wherever a man deservedly and honestly puts his allegation to the deity it will be accepted as sincere and that neither hate, fear, creed, dogma or sects will enter into his final judgment. And in this conception of the deity there is no room for fear or hate, strife or ill-will towards anyone.

In the other hand, I insist that religion as such has absolutely no place in a government founded on the proposition of separating church from state, and in this belief no creed comes forward for prescribed or opposition that applies equally to all of them.

Q.—What is the fact as to whether or not the klan is a democratic organization, that is to say, democratic in policy, democratic in organization and democratic in the administration of its affairs, as well as democratic in the selection of its officers? A.—The klan is not a democratic question. Perhaps I can answer it best by referring to the official record of the klan itself. Prior to the time that Capt. Coburn was murdered—wrote his name—he is now serving time in the Georgia state prison for murdering Capt. Coburn.

REAL MURDERER

If — had what was coming to him he would be free and another would be serving time for the Coburn murder, or he probably would have been burned in the electric chair, because he is the real murderer of Capt. Coburn. I do not know who is now writing the speeches.

I now read from plaintiff's exhibit "S," being the constitution and laws of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, Inc., a copyrighted volume under date of 1926. I quote now from page 14, article 9, section 1, under the sub-head "Imperial Wizard."

"The Imperial Wizard is the supreme chief executive of this order. He shall be elected by the grand dragons. While the grand dragons are in session for the purpose of electing an Imperial Wizard, they are prohibited from having any communication whatsoever with any one outside of their meeting, from the time they are called to order to the time their have finally elected an Imperial Wizard."

Under such heads of "Duties, Prerogatives and Powers of the Imperial Wizard, article 10, section 10," appearing on page 14, referring to the powers of the Imperial Wizard, that section says:

"He shall have full authority and power to appoint all the Imperial officers and grand dragons, and these form of office shall be designated by him."

The same constitution in providing for the removal of the Imperial Wizard, says he shall be tried before the Imperial Kleagle, which must be Imperial Kleagle, which must be the national officers of the klan, and he in turn appoints the national officers of the klan and they hold their offices at his will and pleasure.

HAVE NO VOICE

I have referred to these sections of the constitution of the plaintiff corporation which I have read in plaintiff exhibit "S" and to which it is shown that the membership of the klan at no time had any voice in the selection of its officers or the advancement of its ideals.

I now refer to an article on the klan in a current magazine. Stephenson made the klan a political issue. He did this without authorization. We did not desire it. It was one of the chief complaints that we had against him. In the governor's race, all but one of the candidates were openly hostile to the klan, hence practically all the klansmen supported that one.

That statement is high-sounding and doubtless is intended to deceive everyone who does not know the facts. As a matter of fact, I was not a member of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan in 1924, the time referred to in the foregoing quotation. I have not been a member of the klan since the 18th day of September, 1923, and had nothing whatever to do with the klan's political activities in 1924.

The assertion that all of the candidates for governor except one were hostile to the klan is false. The very reverse is true. Only one candidate in the entire field was hostile to the klan prior to the State convention.

After the State convention, the Democratic candidate did issue a feeble, half-hearted statement pretending to attack the klan. The truth of the matter is that — had no fight with the klan. He was in Indianapolis during the entire campaign in 1924.

ACTIVE WORKER

The State headquarters of the klan was located about the 1100th block on North Pennsylvania st. in Indianapolis. Five hundred men and women in the State will verify my statement. I was a member of the klan and initiated into that organization by me in a room on the 15th floor of the Washington Hotel, Indianapolis, Ind.

My dream of becoming President of the United States by reason of support thrown him by the Georgia contingent, owned by Hiram Wesley Evans, which is the plaintiff corporation in this action, the grand titan of the 11th Congressional District of the State of Indiana, was as much a worker during the entire campaign of 1924, and has been rewarded for his contributions to the cause of the State Job.

The great titan of the 4th District was a campaign manager in 1924, and was awarded for that work with a fine political job which is the financial beneficiary from grafting thus derived.

Joe Huffington, the present grand dragon of the dying remnant of the klan in the 4th district, was great titan of the 1st Congressional District of Indiana and addressed political meetings in public meetings in which he announced that he would control the votes of the klan for certain candidates supported by the leaders.

I took considerable part in the campaign of 1924 and financed the campaign to the extent of approximately $25?,000. The fact that I thus contributed is unimportant in itself, but is important that I contributed a large part of this money, securing it with Liberty bonds and other collateral.

DENIES CHARGE

After the campaign was over there were a number of men in the state to whom I felt under some obligation for kindness they had shown me during the primary fight, and I issued a brief statement, through the press thanking them for their loyalty.

Then thereupon apparently became very much excited and sent a telegram to all the officials in Washington, D. C., to Indiana to issue a statement to the press saying that I had nothing to do with the klan in connection I might add that I never was a political boss in the state of Indiana, and never had any desire to become one. If it were in my power now to dominate the Legislature I would not do so.

It is true that I still have a number of friends who held public office but I did not visit the legislative halls of Indiana a single time during the Legislature of 1925.

The magazine article says: "He did not attempt to dominate Legislature," during the entire session of the 1925 Legislature, their agents swarmed through the halls of the State House like barflies at a free lunch counter.

In the article they purport to say, by reference to my deposition, and their alleged interpretation of what Americanism means, "But our forefathers came here to escape the evils of civilization, considering that its fine finish hid imperfectly very serious faults. . . . The result is complete . . . we refuse to accept dictation from men who are the product of the same kind of mental, moral and political conditions from which our forefathers fled."

A VAGUE MEANING

They do not in this make the meaning quite clear. It is vague, incoherent, inconclusive, and rather in the form of a chaotic broadside, designed to create hate and arouse prejudice, but nothing specific.

Perhaps it means that our forefathers came to this country fleeing from the despotism that reigned in France under King Louis XVI in the 17th Century under Cardinal Richelieu or Cardinal Mazarin, perhaps it means that our forefathers came here fleeing from the conditions that prevailed in the persecution of the Huguenots.

Perhaps it means that our forefathers came to America fleeing from religious persecution in Germany. Perhaps it means that our forefathers came to America fleeing from enforced church attendance even in England. Doubtless it means something, but it is not definite from the language.

Possibly it refers to our forefathers fleeing from a civil condition where they were tried by lettres, where they were tried for political crimes, where they were confined in the Bastille and denied the right to communicate with their friends. Perhaps it refers to medieval conditions in all Europe, where every human right was sacrificed at the will of the crown or the ruling head.

Follow this amazing expose of the Klan by one of its own chiefs in Wednesday's Boston Evening American. Details of murders, floggings, lynchings and of men burned alive will be fully revealed in this series.

THE BOSTON AMERICAN'S PLATFORM FOR BOSTON AND NEW ENGLAND

For BOSTON: 1—Clean streets.
2—Solution of traffic and parking problems.
3—Better pay for honest public service.
4—An airport SECOND TO NONE.
5—Erection of a MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM to compare with any in the land, in order that Boston, properly supplied with first-class hotels, may be the premier convention city of the U. S. A.

For NEW ENGLAND: 1—Weld the six States into a unit through the activities of the New England Council, thus creating a community consciousness.
2—Promote intercourse with Central and South America, encouraging New Englanders to "turn to the sea" again.
3—Keeping everlastingly at the job of telling the rest of the country all about our unique advantages as Summer and Winter Playground of the Nation.
4—Foster the prosperity of our industries through (1) greater efficiency in production and (2) the use of modern methods in merchandising.
5—Promote in every way such natural resources as forests, water powers and fisheries.
6—Assist New England agriculture to better marketing methods.

End of the "Tavern"

Hotels Must Be Up to Date

The closing of the Tavern means no more than that it had outlived its usefulness as a hotel. Those who like to sigh for the good old days may mournfully recall the old place at what was called the "cocktail hour," but otherwise there will be little mourning.

Is Boston "over-built" from the hotel standpoint? We may have too many hotels, of a kind, but not too many Statlers, Ritz-Carltons, Copley-Plazas, Toursines or Parker Houses.

The Tavern, which follows the Adams House into the past by a little more than a year, boasted no more than 100 guest rooms. There are nearly 14,000 rooms in the hotels which remain.

Based upon the success of his own house, a manager of a modern hotel early this year predicted that more hotels will be required. It is his opinion that there will be "no turning back," and that when the clouds break Boston will be calling for increased accommodations.

He means, of course, for MODERN houses. The time has passed, apparently, when the traveler will look for a lodging-house up an alley or patronize the inn whose narrow and winding hallways suggest a fire-trap.

The Cancer Age

55 to 70 for Men, 45 to 65 for Women

The surgeon-in-chief of Boston City Hospital tells the members of the Central Labor Union that there is more cancer in Massachusetts than in any other state of the Union.

Dr. Loder gave no figures, but it is known that in 1924 there were 91,138 deaths from cancer in what is known as the "registration area," which includes about 90 per cent of the country's population.

This means that the number of cases in the United States that year must have been approximately 275,000, for every year there are about three times as many cases as there are deaths.

One in every ten adults now living in the United States, physicians say, is doomed by cancer.

The disease claims as its victims one in every eight men between the ages of 55 and 70, one in every five women between 45 and 65.

The world has never known a more insidious plague and the toll taken each year is steadily increasing.

On Monday of next week a State-wide campaign of education in cancer is to be begun by the Massachusetts Medical Society, the American Society for the Control of Cancer and the State Department of Public Health. New cancer clinics will be opened. There will be public meetings in the larger cities.

The SECRET of cancer prevention is early recognition, early institution of proper treatment.

Be suspicious of a lump where there ought not to be any lump. Investigate a steady loss of weight over a period of two or three months—not a few pounds, but 30 or 40. An unhealed sore anywhere is dangerous, but especially on the lower lip of a man.

ONE reason that cancer is increasing is that people live so much longer. They reach the "cancer age."

When the doctors have completed the Massachusetts campaign most of us will be able to detect the danger signals. Acquiring that knowledge, the thing to do will be to act quickly.

To "wait for further developments," to hesitate about seeing a physician, to put off obtaining relief when symptoms and signs of disease appear, means increased suffering, invalidism and death.

Suggestion That Boston Schools Should Teach Practical Politics

As if it were not quite difficult enough to be a boy in school in the year One Thousand Nine Hundred and Twenty-Eight, the Good Goverament Association would add "practical politics" to the curriculum.

It may be that all Secretary Peter Oliver wants is to get his message to the grown-ups of the community and to that extent we desire to help. Mr. Oliver speaking then, in the current number of "City Affairs," a G. G. A. periodical:

"The greatest trouble with city governments all over this country is the ignorance and indifference of a great number of voters.

"The demagogue with his fine promises and crafty threats can usually command a larger number of votes than the honest and able candidate who tells the truth and faces situations as they actually exist.

"It seems to us that the solution lies not so much in trying to educate the adult who votes as the children in school, who in the next decade will be the deciding power.

"In the survey which is about to be made of the schools of Boston we should like to commend to the attention of the committee an earnest attempt to solve this problem of educating our young people in the duties of citizenship.

"More is included in being a good citizen that knowing the Star Stangled Banner and the Oath of Allegiance. We should like to see our school children given some real practical knowledge of politics, more than a mere course in civics could give. Civics is the theory, politics the practice."

Imagine some of the questions in a practical politics "test":

1—State the difference between Decimo and decimal.

2—Where is "Bossy" Gillis playing this week?

3—What are platforms for?

4—Why do we call Martin a boss and "Charlie" a leader?

5—Of two spellbinders, one (A) possesses a plug hat, a cane and a congressional frock coat, while the other (B) is most effective in an old sweater. Which should the chairman send to a rally at the corner of Northampton and Washington streets?

6—How did Tom Heflin get that way?

WORLD IS MOVING TOWARD PEACE

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THE advance may be very slow, but the world is steadily moving toward peace.

There has been a distinct change of sentiment among the peoples of all nations about the business of war. They have been made to see more and more its seamy side and not its glory.

Beside this, the profession of the soldier is not in as great repute as it was.

Time was, in the middle ages, that most promising young men expected some day to go to the wars. To be a fighting gentleman was considered the most splendid career.

Business and trade, once considered as half shameful and unworthy occupations, have now risen in the esteem of the public. It is no longer considered common or second-class to be a business man. More youths are looking forward to a business career nowadays and the idea of being a soldier is not so attractive as it was.

The United States has just completed a new treaty with France. Some may think it an idle gesture, but this treaty distinctly declares that war is not to be considered as a method of adjusting disputes between the two countries.

New treaties are to be made in June with England, Japan and Germany. They will go further than any previous undertaking in referring disputes to arbitration and in settling any matters which may have become subjects of dispute.

Germany has heretofore, under the leadership of the Kaiser, refused to become a party to a treaty which advocated arbitration, and has looked upon that method of settling disputes with disdain. She is now anxious to form this kind of treaty.

The Pan-American Congress in Havana, in spite of all the sceptical observations about it, shows a real underlying desire to arrange American affairs so as to exclude the possibility of war.

The triumphant flight of Lindbergh not only to France but to the South American countries was no glorification of a warrior, but the exaltation of one who was distinctly an apostle of peace.

Altogether, although many of our specific plans have not prospered, we think that the world is steadily mounting up from the clouds of war into the sunshine of peace.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

WHAT do you expect? Do you expect happiness, health, success, friendliness? Or do you expect unhappiness, disaster, unkindness?

You'll get largely what you expect to get.

You, yourself, ARE "master of your fate"—not through your own stubborn willing, but through the faith that lies in you. That isn't a pretty platitude for Pollyannas. It's a psychological fact. But, to most of us, it's still a new and amazing fact and we're not yet ready to accept it.

For millions of years the human race has been taking what came and blaming it on God—or the family doctor—or the mother-in-law—or the Democratic party—or any other convenient scapegoat. Good fortune, men thought, lay OUTSIDE. God, or other men, held it tight within their hands and it could only be won by struggles and sacrifices, fury or fasting or religious mumbojumbo. Never did it occur to them that Good Fortune lay INSIDE, that the attitude of the man himself determined his weal or his woe. Now, at last, we are beginning to realize that we are what we want to be, what we believe we can be. And now and then a proof of this amazing fact flares across our darkness.

Recently the play 'Appearance' was presented in New York, Los Angeles and San Francisco. It was a crude play, simply presented with no spectacular effects. There was no mark of talent on it—only a simple message and a flaming sincerity.

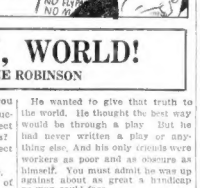
Dozens of other plays more cleverly written, with far more expensive production, failed. But this simple play succeeded. Belasco approved it. Al Jolson gave it enthusiastic endorsement. People wondered who the "lucky guy" was who had won such powerful backing.

The "lucky guy" was a penniless bellhop of San Francisco, a young negro who had only had four years of schooling and not the slightest training in play writing. To this boy there had come the vision that "a man could be what he wanted to be and believed he could be." Ignorance did not matter, poverty or obscurity did not matter, even a black skin did not matter as long as a man WANTED and BELIEVED.

That vision seemed to Garland Anderson the greatest thing on earth. He wanted to give that truth to the world. He thought the best way would be through a play. But he had never written a play or anything else. And his only friends were workers as poor and as obscure as himself. You must admit he was up against about as great a handicap as man could face.

"How did you manage it?" I said to him as we sat dining together and talking of this amazing thing.

"I didn't manage it," he answered very simply. "I just wanted it—and believed it could be. Of course,



I realized I didn't know how to write a play. But I do so many things every day that I don't know how to do. I breathe and digest my food and sleep and I don't know how to do any of these things.

"But they must be done and the power to do them comes from some infinite source of supply. And it seemed to me that if that source of supply could give me power to breathe, without any mechanical knowledge, it could give me power to write that play—if I believed it could.

"So, one night, between telephone calls, I started. I finished it three weeks. Then I went right on expecting some one to produce it and it was produced. That was all."

Christ, too, said "that was all."

"Ask and it shall be given you; seek and ye shall find; knock and it shall be opened unto you." He said. But we still won't believe Him.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, April 17—The only magazine ever fashioned solely for inhabitants of New York to meet with success is The New Yorker. It is a weekly publication that made the open and rather snooty avowal with its first issue that it was not for "the old lady from Dubuque." Nearly all its editors are from the brush, however.

It was a weak-kneed infant that nearly tottered to oblivion during the first few months despite carrying at its mastnead a glittering galaxy of bright young men who receive a favored bow from the head waiter at the Algonquin. It did not click.

Then a gentleman with a hefty bankroll got behind it. New life was breathed into its pages, the infant's eyelids began to flutter and was in a short time yelping lustily. The editorial destinies are assigned to Harold W. Ross, from—of all places—Aspen, Col.

Today seven American cities have periodicals patterned after The New Yorker. Paris is issuing two and another is on the fire in London. From a cramped cubbyhole the journal moved into expansive offices occupying almost an entire floor of a big office building.

It is said Ralph Barton, the caricaturist, in its formation days, accepted stock in the magazine in lieu of cash and today his dividends from that source help to maintain his elaborate establishment in the Rue Nicole in Paris.

The magazine editorially reflects the smugness that is typically New Yorkish. It has a leer for the provinces and a cheerio for almost everything bearing the Manhattan trademark. And it thrives on this sort of sophistication.

While designed strictly for the metropolis, it circulates largely outside this area. New York in the past decade has had a dozen such class journals which soon expired of inanition. But The New Yorker, it would appear, has come to stay and has developed a half dozen writers and artists of promise while rolling up circulation.

A TELEGRAM comes zipping from Los Angeles to inquire if it is true a Fifth ave. store is offering sun parasols in colors for men. We wouldn't know about that. But it would not surprise us.

A GENTLEMAN with a terrifying phobia for open spaces has been walking to Central Park after dark every evening, instructing the taxi driver to follow closely at his heels so he can hop in at any moment. The other night in the middle of the park he looked about and the taxi was not in sight. He yelled, whistled and screamed to no avail. And he arrived at an cab limp and dewy. The driver had lost him in the dark and also lost his job for the experience cured the gentleman of his phobia and he now walks in the park alone.

PARDON-THE-YAWN note: A star in a recent musical comedy says her greatest trial was to fight off utter boredom the average audience inspires in her.

IF I wanted to be nasty—in fact I will be—the night I saw hey it was the audience that was having the struggle she claims for herself.

THE tragic tale of a Siamese cat comes from a big hotel. one morning it was missed by a patron. After a complete search it was assumed it had fallen from a window to the street 22 floors below. On the fifth day there was a weak and plaintive meow on a ledge near the window. The feline had apparently lost about eight of its nine lives in a cramped position in the wind and the rain. The ledge was only half as wide as its body.

OH, THESE WOMEN!

By Leola Allard

THE latest wrinkle is an ink which lasts only a few days. It was invented to avoid breach-of-promise suits. A man is perfectly safe writing anything he likes, and you can get ink that lasts one week, two weeks or three, depending upon how far away the lady is and how much faith you have in her.

A girl can tell by the length of time the ink lasts how far the man trusts her.

Even with such a safeguard, they still born them one a minute!

Mrs. Helen Dolder of Dekalb County, Ill., beat three men in the race for sheriff. She ran her own campaign, ran the county jail and ran a household in which she has four small children. Her husband, who was sheriff in her county, died last January. She filled his place so well they elected her to the office.

The prisoners rebelled one day and refused to eat their mush. The lady turned a fire hose on them and drenched them. They went back as docile as lambs. Then she put the beans to soak, dressed the children for school and did the week's washing.

The three men who ran against Mrs. Dolder said being sheriff wasn't a woman's job, but she polled the largest vote ever cast for sheriff in that county.

Women in England never make up their faces in public. It is a very low thing to do, so they think. And when it pours rain, as it does now and then in merry old England, they don't wear rubbers because it ruins their shoes. Funny people these Chinese.

Scientists at the University of Chicago have discovered a cure for sexsickness. Someone without a soul is sure to discover a cure for lovesickness some of these days, and then spring will never again be what it is today. The life kind of sickness you wouldn't have missed, but you never want to get that way again. Its the kind of sickness women would like to wish upon the men, and remain free souls themselves. And then wouldn't this be a world to live in!

Henry Ford had tea and a two-hour visit with the King and Queen of England—in person, not a picture. Henry was visiting Lady Astor when the King and Queen "dropped in." Of course, it would have to be a man who couldn't remember what kind of dress she wore or whether she had on one of those terrible English hats!

We don't believe much will come of the suggestion. Where would they get the instructors?

Speaking seriously, as sooner or later one must be careful to do in an editorial column, it seems to us parents will be well satisfied if the schools will continue to BE schools—and not training grounds for young politicians.

Wherever in the world did the G. G. A.'s secretary get the idea that THIS town needs more politicians!
